RULES.

The Races will be run under the Australian Jockey Club Rules.

No horse whatever will be admitted into the Saddling Paddock on the plea of coming in with a racehorse.

One groom in charge of racehorse will be admitted into the Saddling Paddock.

Racehorses will enter the Saddling Paddock by the door at the west end.

No equipage or horse (racehorses excepted) will be admitted to the Saddling Paddock on any pretence whatever, except by cards of admission.

No omnibuses will be admitted inside the gate of the course grounds.

No person shall be allowed to have gambling implements in their possession, or be allowed to use them on the course.

The admittance to the course is subject to the regulations being complied with: any person infringing them or any of them will be liable to be ejected from the course.

Owing to the great inconvenience arising from owners or trainers failing to give notice of the withdrawal of horses in proper time, their attention is particularly requested to the following rule of the A. J. C., which will be rigidly enforced during the forthcoming meeting:—

VI.—All persons intending to withdraw horses are required to give notice to that effect to the Secretary or Clerk of the Scales, at least half-an-hour before starting. Any person neglecting or refusing to comply with this rule shall pay a fine, to be imposed by the Stewards, not exceeding 25 sovereigns, to the race fund, and no horse shall be considered struck out of his engagements unless such notice shall be given, but shall be liable for his whole stake.

The start for each race during the forthcoming meeting will take place punctually at the advertised time, and, in order that there may be no misunderstanding, the warning bell will be rung four minutes previous to the saddling bell. The saddling bell will ring seven minutes previous to the go-to-the-post bell, and the go-to-the-post bell will be rung in time for horses leaving the paddock to reach the starting post.

The TIME on all occasions to be that indicated by the weighing-room clock.

The BELL last rung will be shown by the signal post, to which TRAINERS and JOCKEYS are enjoined to pay particular attention, in order that they, with the horse, may be ready to leave the paddock on the ringing of the "go-to-the-post" bell; for in all cases of their failing to be at the post at the specified time of starting, the start will take place without them, and the Trainer and Jockey will be subject to a fine of five pounds (vide Rule V.), which will be rigidly enforced.

TO JOCKEYS.—XVI. The Stewards shall have power to impose a fine, not exceeding £5, on any jockey not appearing in their opinion, in a thoroughly clean and appropriate dress. The owner of the horse which he may be engaged to ride shall nevertheless be held responsible for the proper condition of the colours; and any jockey who shall be fined in respect thereof shall be entitled to recover the amount from such owner; and any such owner refusing to indemnify such jockey shall be disqualified from entering or starting a horse until such fine shall have been paid.

SOMETHING NEW THE ORDER OF THE DAY.

A GIGANTIC HIPPODROMATIC PERFORMANCE will be given at the above Grounds on ANNIVERSARY DAY, January 27, under the management of Mr. JAMES COOKE.

Mr. Cooke, in calling the attention of the citizens of Sydney to this new enterprise, wishes to impress upon the public mind that he has no connection with any other circus. No sports but the one in question; and as the present public of Sydney have proclaimed him the only equestrian manager in the colony who has sufficient experience to cater for public amusements in open air fêtes, he now begs to state that his ideas are not confined to CHARIOT RACING, ROMAN RACING.
He will, therefore, on this occasion produce an entertainment entirely new and novel, and as a considerable portion of the entertainments will be given on the water, the only place adapted to carry out his ideas is Cremorne Gardens. The audience who visit the grounds on the above day can have a full and uninterrupted view of the Regatta, thus affording an opportunity of enjoying both sports for one charge.

THE WORKING MAN'S RESOLVE.

'Tis true that men, in every grade,
Have sad complaints to make of trade,
And many bear privation;
But yet 'tis folly to complain—
By discontent we nothing gain,
Unless it be vexation.

And when did murmuring ever give
To any man the means to live?
Sorrow must lead to ruin.
Go on and do the best you can;
Bear your misfortunes like a man;
Up! up! my lads, be doing.

The active man his wits display—
He works and labours night or day,
His nature is EVINCE;

COLONIAL INDUSTRY.—PIONEER KEROSENE OIL, manufactured in the colony, made from colonial mineral and by colonial refiners and artisans.

The quality of this oil is both better and safer than most of the imported kerosene, burning with equal brilliancy and without smoke or smell. The Pioneer Kerosene Oil obtained the first-class prize medal for excellency of quality, at the Intercolonial Exhibition.

The proprietor begs to present his thanks to the public of Australia for the favourable consideration which has been accorded to the Pioneer Kerosene Oil. In originating the works, the proprietor aimed at bringing into existence and developing an important colonial industry, and by the generous support of the people of Australia has succeeded in so doing. It is now only a question of time when Colonial Kerosene will supersede American in these colonies and the Pioneer Oil occupy the first position among even Colonial Kerosene.

Oil dealers and storekeepers in town and country will be liberally dealt with both in price and terms.

SPLENDID PASTORAL INVESTMENT in the Province of Marlborough, consisting of four RUNS, known as the Ottley Fells, Avondale, Richmond Dale, and Pass Runs—all in the possession of one firm. This really first-class Station Property, together with 20,000 or more first-class Sheep, of mixed ages and sexes, for SALE by private contract. These Runs comprise upwards of 130,000 acres of magnificently-grassed country, capable of carrying 70,000 sheep, are well watered, and easily worked with but few hands.

The Freehold portion consists of about 23,000 acres, which land has been selected for purchase in such a manner that the remainder is practically of no value to any but the freeholder.

The remainder of the country is held under lease from Government.

The Improvements are substantial, and include a first-rate dwelling-house, wool-shed, paddock, and stockyards, shepherds' houses, dipping apparatus, and all requisites for working such a flock of sheep as these runs will carry.

In connection with the above property is also offered for SALE a valuable FARM, about 3½ miles from the City of Nelson, containing 1038 acres of good land, and which is admirably situated and adapted for carrying a stock of wethers for the Nelson and West Coast markets. The undersigned have much pleasure in calling the attention of capitalists to the above magnificent properties, as from the extensive area of well-known fattening country which they include they are certain to prove a most profitable investment.

The Runs are supposed to contain the only country in the Province of Marlborough which is insufficiently stocked, so that for years to come it will be unnecessary for purchasers to sell off their surplus sheep.

For terms and further particulars apply to Messrs. N. EDWARDS and CO.

Nelson, New Zealand, 13th November, 1867.

FOR SALE, privately, DISTRICT OF LIVERPOOL PLAINS, ALL THOSE EXTENSIVE AND MAGNIFICENT STATIONS, known as
WALLAH
TIBBEREENAH
WEE WAA NORTH
And the enclosed portion of
GALATHARA;
Also,
MANILLA, GLENRIDDLE, and IRONBARK STATION;

Together with 15,000 HEAD OF SUPERIOR CATTLE, a mixed herd, to be mustered and delivered; and 40,000 WELL-BRED FINE-WOOLLED SHEEP, teams of Working Bullocks, Drays, Stock Horses, and the complete working plant of the stations.

The above valuable stations, well known as being the property of JOHN C. LLOYD, Esq., are offered as follows:—

embracing the runs "Gundemaine," "Wee Waa North," and the enclosed portion of "Galathara," all securely fenced on three side, and bounded on the fourth by the River Namoi, with which will be sold 12,500 HEAD OF CATTLE,
a quiet well-bred herd, of mixed ages and sexes, of the well-known double L brand, to be mustered and delivered.

The improvements comprise—One of the best homesteads in the district, large drafting yards, inoculating and speying yards, out-stations, &c., and about 60 miles of new fencing, now nearly completed; also the Galathera Inn, enclosed paddock, &c., the whole being most substancial and perfect.

This portion is abundantly watered, having a frontage of about 18 miles to the Namoi River, and forms the most complete cattle property in New South Wales.

WALLAH SHEEP ESTABLISHMENT, including "Wallah" (head station), "Baan Baa North," and "Tibereenah" runs, having a frontage of about 24 miles to the Namoi River, together with 30,000 (more or less) highly-bred mixed sheep (the progeny of choice ewes by imported rams), viz., 15,000 ewes and 15,000 wethers, and 120 rams—a fair average of all the flocks the property of the vendor (exclusive only of the stud flock), the quality and description of which are well known.

Upon "Wallah" are a comfortable residence, woolshed, yards, drafting yards, out stations, &c., &c.

Upon "Baan Baa North," overseer's cottage, paddock, seven permanent stations, &c., &c.

Upon "Tibereenah," six permanent stations, &c., &c., the improvements being all that can be desired for profitably working a large sheep station.

The area of this property is very extensive, and the grazing capabilities unusually large in consequence of the abundant supply of water, commanded by its favourable position in the centre of the most valuable portion of the Liverpool Plains District.

MANILLA ESTABLISHMENT,
Viz., Manilla, Glenriddle, and Ironbark Runs, with 2500 Head of Cattle, a mixed herd, equal in quality and description to the herd offered with the Gundemaine station, to be mustered and delivered.

Also, 10,000 MIXED SHEEP, about equal proportions of ages and sexes, and similar in description to those on Wallah.

This property also comprehends a large tract of excellent country, and forms a very valuable and compact station, being as equally well adapted for sheep as for cattle.

Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the above, which will either be sold together or separately, to suit a buyer.

The fattening qualities of the country generally are excelled by none, and the character of the sheep is evinced in the high prices always obtained in the London market for the wool from these stations, the owner having spared no expense in improving the breed by the introduction of the best rams procurable in Europe.

The cattle are well bred, and have been further improved by a judicious selection of choice bulls, and by careful management.

For further particulars apply to
T. and A. CADELL,
West Maitland.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1868.

ACCORDING to the traditions of the great educational establishments of England, a dramatic performance by the gentlemen connected with the University was given in the large hall yesterday evening. It is a very proper rule to extend the utmost indulgence to those who gratify the public by an amateur performance. To judge of its merits, of course requires a knowledge of the language in which it is performed. This, we presume, was an advantage enjoyed by only a small part of the audience. It must, therefore, have been the addresses and gestures of the drama that conveyed whatever instruction or pleasure was derived by the spectators.

In another column will be found a letter, with an extract from the writings of Archbishop WHATELY, as to the moral influence of such recitations upon the minds of those who take part in them. No one can ascribe to the Archbishop a tendency to extreme fastidiousness, and so great an authority will of course shake the confidence of many in the fitness of the plays of TERENCE to be the vehicle of instruction to young men. It must, however, be recollected that the scene and the characters were so remote from the times and habits of the auditors as well as performers, that it must have been regarded rather as a scholastic exercise than a source of peculiar emotion.

We are indebted to the preservation of these plays for sketches of ancient life such as are nowhere else to be found, and they are full of the proverbs which convey the rustic wisdom of antiquity. They are interspersed, however, with numerous passages which offend the purer morals of Christianity as well as with forms of execration which are not now held to be respectable in good society. The disguise of a learned language weakens the force of many such peculiarities no doubt, for it must be uncommonly hard to make, or understand, love in the vernacular of the SCIPIOS. There is a remarkable sameness in the plots. Generally some old gentleman is bewildered by his slave and disobeyed by his son, whose social preferences are far from respectable. But then it must be recollected that we are speaking of a heathen people and of heathen morality.

The question of the moral tendency of the study of classic authors is, however, a very wide one. The practice of learned bodies is in its favour. The moral character of those who have taught and those who have learnt, has not been such as to separate them in any way from the rest of mankind. They are neither better, nor worse, than their neighbours of the same rank. We imagine that such plays leave but a very slight impression; not half so much as a bad print. But this is no reason why they should be maintained if, upon a calm review, they are found to be in antagonism to Christian morality.

On this point very serious differences exist. We believe that the ecclesiastics of the Roman Catholic Church are greatly opposed to the literature of antiquity in its unexpurgated form, and that this constitutes one of their complaints of the systems of public education. The plays performed by the students of St. John's College, as to moral tendency in the points complained of, are of course unimpeachable. That which is commonly represented, ending in the canonisation of a saint, is almost a copy of a story which circulated long before Cardinal WISEMAN was born. GOETHE, in his autobiography, gives an account of meeting with it in Switzerland in a cottage, and describes the emotion with which this story was repeated to him by some simple-hearted woman, who took it for real history.

It is easy, however, for those who have the guidance of classical studies to omit passages in the performance of a drama that could have any evil tendency, unless this is to be assumed from the nature of the whole plot.

The French play of MOLIERE would be much more widely understood by an ordinary company. Of course, like plays in general, it is a love story, and the obstacles which have always opposed "the course of true love." Much of it is in ridicule of the doctors, who are assembled in great force. The plays of this author exhibit a vast amount of animosity against the profession, such as would do honour to a zealous homœopathist. In truth they seem to have been in those days a very dangerous class of men. The song which concludes the piece in the original is to the following effect:—"Let us love till death; reason bids us do so. Alas! What would life be without love? Better to lose our life than to lose our love. Goods, glory, grandeur, sceptres, all objects of desire are nothing unless love is mingled, for without it there is in life no pleasure. To be always loving is the means of being always happy. Then let us sing together, and dance, and leap, and play." The chorus then join. "Let us think of nothing but enjoying ourselves, for the grand affair is pleasure."

It cannot be said that this is a very lofty view of life, and probably it is not intended to be a final conclusion by any who are concerned in the exhibition of the play.

Such are the topics of the dramas which—one in a foreign, and the other in a dead language—were played last night. A performance in the hall of the University, before a select audience, once a year, can hardly have any of the usual objections which have been opposed to play-going. In matters of this kind there will be probably a gradual approximation to something like the central truth. Such a devotion to pleasure, and such pleasures as are exhibited and inculcated by these dramatic authors, will hardly be recommended by any sober man in any rank of life. But to know what has occurred in former times, what have been the tastes of past generations, in what language they have couched their thoughts, and what thoughts have been most dominant among them, may be objects worth arriving at, although it must always be desired that those who watch over educational establishments leave no question of their views of the dissolute and licentious, and give no sanction to principles which, wherever they prevail, have proved uniformly fatal to public and private happiness.

The objections which have been stated, whatever may be their value, are, however, for this year, too late. It would afford quite as much gratification, although it might perhaps not answer the purpose, if the representations made by the students were given in their native tongue, and if some of the finer and purer dramatic authors of their own country were their guides in the representation of the passions. It would be, however, too serious a view to take of the acting, and indeed object of the display, to regard it otherwise than as an evening's entertainment for the most part given to persons who like to meet, and who take the opportunity of gathering, which from its nature is sure to be always select. In all large communities the varieties of taste must be numerous, and there is always some breadth of ground which may be called debatable and is occupied or avoided by persons according to their rank, their station, and their original training. All we have a right to exact is that nothing shall be done to give fair umbrage to the moral sentiments of the community which, when not tyrannical, are always respectable.

THE exploration of the coast of Arnheim's Land, on the northern side of Australia, as ordered by the Government of South Australia, has terminated, and Captain CADELL has returned with the Eagle to Port Jackson. The expedition has occupied nearly twelve months, and the result has been to furnish us with a fuller knowledge of the coast line, and of such portion of the interior as could be scanned by an ascent of the navigable part of the rivers.

But the special object the Government at Adelaide had in view was to fix the site for a capital, that it might survey town lots and convey them to the purchasers of the preliminary land orders. It remains to be seen whether the information Captain CADELL brings back will enable the Government to make a decision on this point, and whether, after all, the decision will be a right one.

There are plenty of convenient shipping places in Arnheim's Land—half-a-dozen, any one of which is better than Port Adelaide. But it does not follow that any one of them will be the real port of the district. Good harbours are not necessarily the harbours to which commerce goes. There is abundant proof of that on the Australian coast. Witness King George's Sound, Port Lincoln, Kingscote, Western Port, Jervis Bay, Port Stephens, and Gladstone. It will depend upon the inland trade where the most busy port will be. Perhaps in a peninsula like Arnheim's Land there are too many shipping places for any one of them to become very important, and the real metropolis may be after all not on the coast at all, but somewhere on the table land in the centre. This might be most suitable as regards climate, and most accessible from all quarters.

The course of events has tended to confirm the opinion we long ago expressed, viz., that in making the selection of the metropolis the first step the Government at Adelaide began at the wrong end. A city is not the first natural beginning of colonisation. It grows up as the result of something that had preceded it. The first basis is productive industry. It may be mining, as gold digging or copper mining, or it may be ordinary rural industry, as tillage or stock farming. But in either case the town is the secondary result, and not the primary germ of colonisation.

There has been experience enough in this part of the world to shew that the ordinary beginning of colonisation in Australia is grazing in the form usually known as squatting. Anything to take precedence of that—other than mining—is simply artificial. If the South Australian Government wished to precipitate the settlement of Arnheim's Land all it had to do was to offer special inducements to squatters to take stock there. The first run stocked would then be the real beginning of colonisation. An encampment of surveyors, or civil servants of any other grade, is no colonisation at all.

Whether it was worth while to precipitate a settlement in Arnheim's Land is another question. The gradual expansion of squatting pursuits is sure to cover the available ground sooner or later, and it has not been definitely stated what is to be gained by an anticipation of the ordinary course of events. But the South Australian Government seemed to be ambitious of territory and dominion, and anxious to display its enterprise and governing power. The fact that its own STUART had performed the perilous feat of crossing the centre of the continent seemed to give it some claim upon the north coast, and it sought and obtained the barren and expensive honour of colonising the district it had explored.

This ill-advised ambition is to be regretted because of the failure that has followed it. If the mother country had tried its hand at founding a colony, and had failed, we should have said that the failure was natural, because imperial officials always muddle colonial affairs. But when a colony ostentatiously asks to be allowed to show how to found a new settlement, and then makes a mess of it, the prestige of colonial administration generally suffers by the conspicuous non-success.

The two most successful illustrations of founding new colonies in Australia have been, we may say, unintentional so far as Government action was concerned. We refer, of course, to the settlements at Port Phillip and Moreton Bay. These both developed themselves out of the natural extension of pastoral pursuits. They grew from outlying provinces into separate colonies. But the Government under which they were nurtured made no effort at the establishment of independent settlements; on the contrary, it resisted separation as long as it could.

This would have been the natural career for Arnheim's Land. It should have been colonised from Queensland, for it is only from that colony that it can be stocked. When the runs at the head of the Gulf of Carpentaria are all stocked, the pioneer squatters will go out to the north-west, and when Arnheim's Land is sufficiently settled it will seek and claim a separate Government.

The most hopeful part of Captain CADELL's report is that he found a fine country on the banks of the Roper, equal in quality to the Plains of Promise. This is the best prospect of colonisation. Country of that character is not to be neglected even in these days of dulness in pastoral pursuits. Skilled squatters who have the capital that can make them independent of the pressure of banks, and who can afford to wait two or three years for the first return for their money, know what is to be made ultimately out of country of that description close to a port. It is more to the purpose for Captain CADELL to bring home tidings of good country than tidings of a good port. A harbour will attract no settler, unless there are previously other settlers in the back ground to make use of the harbour. But good country is sure, sooner or later, to attract somebody. One pioneer will attract another, and when the country has been explored with an eye to business, the question of the right site for a metropolis will soon settle itself.

THE AMUSEMENT ADVERTISEMENTS will be found in the second page of this day's issue.

THE DUKE'S LEVEE.—The following gentlemen were presented to his Royal Highness; but their names were omitted in our report:—Dr. O. S. Evans, Mr. Compton; Mr. E. B. Decker, Mr. C. E. R. Murray (members of the Bar); Mr. W. H. Paling; Mr. Elouis, Deputy Master of the Mint; Volunteer Staff-Surgeon Aaron and Assistant-Surgeon Dansey; Mr. George Fullerton. The following were incorrectly inserted:—Mr. H. Mackenzie, jun., C. A. Thurlow. The Rev. Charles Walsh and the Rev. T. E. O. Mell were placed with ministers of the Church of Rome—the former is of the Anglican Church, and the latter of the Primitive Methodist denomination.

ADDRESS TO PRINCE ALFRED.—The address from the Municipal Council of the city of Sydney, to his Royal Highness Prince Alfred, was read and presented by his Worship the Mayor (Mr. Charles Moore), and not by the Town Clerk, as stated by mistake in Thursday's issue.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM AND THE VOLUNTEER BAND.—An error occurred in Mr. Fisher's initials—they should have been J. C. Fisher. This gentleman was the leader on the occasion. The Volunteer Brigade Band was on duty on Wednesday, at the Circular Quay, and played the Royal Salute when H.R.H. Prince Alfred landed, again at the Prince Consort's Statue; the men were then conveyed in cabs to the Government Gate, and performed the National Anthem with the children. The Military Band was stationed at Government House.

COLONISTS' BALL TO H.R.H. PRINCE ALFRED.—A meeting of the committee, appointed by a public meeting held some weeks ago, to arrange the preliminaries for a grand ball in honour of the Duke of Edinburgh, was convened yesterday afternoon in the President's Rooms, at the Legislative Council Offices. There were not many of the committee in attendance, but among those present were—The Hon. T. A. Murray (who occupied the chair), Mr. W. S. Macleay, M.L.A.; Mr. D. Egan, M.L.A.; Mr. J. F. Josephson, M.L.A.; Mr. J. G. Raphael, and others. The following names were added to the list of the general committee, viz., Messrs. F. Cape, G. Thornton, M.L.A.; E. Lee, A. Thompson, W. D. Stewart, J. R. Rundle, W. Forlonge, W. Hall, J. Binney, J. M'Leod, W. Tucker, and W. Long. Applications for the situation of secretary were received, but were not dealt with, it being thought advisable to defer the matter to a future meeting. Mr. J. G. Raphael informed the committee that he had that morning attended a meeting of the City Municipal Council, at which a resolution had been passed, refusing to allow the Committee to have the use of the Hyde Park Pavilion on any terms whatever. He stated that the aldermen had unanimously given this decision, and had moreover expressed their determination to forfeit the Government aid rather than permit the committee to use the Pavilion. Under these circumstances the Committee decided to seek for some other suitable place in which a ball would be held, and resolved to carry out their arrangement without any further reference to the Corporation. It was thought the Prince of Wales Theatre might be hired at a reasonable cost, and transformed into a commodious ballroom. Mr. Josephson undertook to ascertain from the lessee of the theatre, upon what terms the theatre could be obtained, and a sub-committee—consisting of Messrs. Murray, Josephson, and Egan—was appointed to wait upon the Premier, and apply through him, to the Government for a sum of money (to be appropriated out of the fund already set apart for the Prince's entertainment) to assist in carrying out the proposed ball. It was stated that the Premier had expressly stated that unless the committee were allowed to use the Pavilion, the £1000 promised to the Corporation would not be paid; and therefore there will be some funds out of which the committee may reasonably expect assistance. The money being forfeited by the Corporation, may either wholly or in part be handed over to the committee in order to carry the project of a colonists' ball to a successful issue. It was stated at the meeting that the ball would be Fancy and Full Dress so that it might be made more attractive and at the same time accessible to all respectable persons who were desirous of attending. The meeting adjourned, until half-past 8 o'clock, on Monday morning, when the sub-committee will report progress, and further steps will be taken.

PAVILION, HYDE PARK.—The City Municipal Council decided, yesterday, by an unanimous show of hands, not to grant the use of the Pavilion to those who are getting up a public or colonists' ball on any conditions.

CORONER'S INQUESTS.—The City Coroner held an inquiry, yesterday, at the Boundary Stone Inn, Bourke-street, respecting the death of a man named Samuel Fisher, aged about seventy-six years. Deceased was a vagrant, and, in company with his wife, has been in the habit for some time past of sleeping out in the bush. On last Friday evening they obtained permission from Mrs. Pawley, of Snake Hollow, Surry Hills, to sleep in the stable attached to her residence. Mrs. Pawley also supplied them with food. Deceased went to the stable, lay down, and died in about an hour or two afterwards. Dr. M'Donagh was of opinion that deceased died from coma, brought on by natural causes, accelerated by privation and exposure to the atmosphere, and a verdict to that effect was returned by the jury. The City Coroner also held an inquiry yesterday, at his office, respecting the death of a man named William Johnstone, who for the last few weeks had resided at Mrs. Ainslie's, Bathurst-street. He was first taken ill about a fortnight ago; and notwithstanding he continued to get worse from day to day, he neglected to send for medical aid. On Thursday last, Mrs. Ainslie procured an order for his admission into the Infirmary. He was conveyed there, but died the same evening. Dr. Schutte, house physician at the Infirmary, made a post mortem examination, and was of opinion that deceased first suffered from acute dysentery, which, through self-neglect, was followed by inflammation of the abdomen and intestines, which was the cause of death. The jury returned a verdict of "Died from natural causes."

THE ROYAL VISIT SOUVENIR.—Mr. Henry Marsh has collected some of his best compositions into a very neat album, which he intends as an Australian keepsake for 1868. It is inscribed to His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh. The various selections contained in the "Souvenir" have from time to time as they appeared, been favourably noticed by the Press, and well patronised by the public—it is therefore unnecessary to comment on them in detail. They are now placed in a convenient form for presentation and playing. The pieces comprised in this publication are—"The Royal Visit Waltzes," "The Prince Alfred March," "The Guiding Star Waltz," "The Vice-regal Galop," the "Fair Australian," "Silver Star," and "Jessamine" waltzes. The title-page is very neat, and on the inside is an excellent photographic view, by Victor Prout, of Farm Cove and Government House, taken from the vicinity of Thrupp's Point, on the North Shore. The musical typography is also highly creditable.

CATHEDRAL ORGAN PERFORMANCES.—Mr. C. E. Horsley will perform, this afternoon, on the organ in St. Andrew's Cathedral, at 3.30 p.m. The programme consists of the following sacred pieces:—Chorus, "Hailstone," Handel; aria, "If with all your hearts"; chorus, "Yet doth the Lord" (Elijah), Mendelssohn; Andante, Beethoven; chorus (by desire), "Inflammatus," Rossini; extempore voluntary, themes, "Tantum Ergo," and Luther's Hymn, C. E. Horsley; grand chorus, "Hallelujah," Handel; God save the Queen.

THE CRICKET MATCH BETWEEN THE ABORIGINES AND ELEVEN OF H. M. SERVICE.—We understand that a cricket match and athletic sports, in which Lawrence's Aboriginal Cricketers are to take part, will be held at the Albert Ground, on Tuesday and Wednesday next, in the presence of His Royal Highness Prince Alfred; his Excellency the Governor and the Countess of Belmore have also signified their intention of being present. The cricket match will be commenced on Tuesday at 11.30, and it will be followed by the athletic sports, the programme of which has already been advertised. The blacks on this occasion, besides the Prince's patronage, will further be honoured by playing against an eleven of H.M. Service, comprising the ship Galatea, with Caffyn and Gregory. We append the names of the eleven:—Captain Taylor, Mr. De Crespigny, Captain Brownrigg, Lieutenant Williams, Lieutenant Thomas, Mr. H. B. Elwyn, Major Roberts, Major Baker, Dr. Alston, Caffyn and Gregory; emergencies, Lieutenant Sergeant, Lieutenant Keyser. The athletic sports will be open to all comers, and the blacks will enter for all events. Prior to the programme the aborigines are to represent their mode of war by a sham fight. Their costume has been prepared expressly for the occasion, and is very well fitted for the purpose. The ground will be doubtless well patronised.

ST. MARK'S SOCIETY OF BELLRINGERS.—The annual dinner of the members of this society was held on the evening of the 18th, when they partook of a well-served repast supplied by Mr. Edmonds, at the Bayswater Hotel, Double Bay. After the cloth was removed, Mr. May, the chairman, proposed the usual loyal toasts, and the company then drank the health of the officers, the compliments being suitably acknowledged by those present. The rest of the evening was spent in musical harmony, and in such pleasant intercourse as rendered the occasion one of general gratification.

THE HIPPODROME ON THE ALBERT GROUND.—An entertainment similar to those already given on the Albert Cricket Ground, and which attracted a large share of public favour, is to be given on Monday next. Among the acrobats who are to perform are the well-known vaulters Messrs. Ross and Carlo, and the renowned Pablo Fanque. A reference to our advertising columns will show that a very full programme has been provided.

THE PRINCE OF WALES OPERA HOUSE.—The Christmas pantomime has been succeeded by an excellent burlesque, by Planche, entitled The Sleeping Beauty in the Wood, which was produced with very great taste as regards the scenic and mechanical effects, and was excellently acted. Mrs. Greville played the Princess; Mrs. Jones, Queen Serena; Mr. Rogers, the King; and Mr. Greville, Baron Factotum, in an unexceptionable manner, and were rewarded with expressions of satisfaction from the audience; the other characters were also effectively represented. Last evening Jack the Giant Killer was reproduced for the delectation of country visitors, whom the Prince's visit has attracted to the city. There was a very large audience, and whether it was that the presence of a number of officers from the Galatea had an inspiring effect or not, certainly no pantomime ever went off more smoothly, and the local allusions, especially those having reference to the Royal visit, by Mr. Greville, took immensely. The management of Mr. Coppin is now drawing to a close, and, as a fitting portion of the finale, he purposes giving six farewell performances prior to his departure from the colony. As a manager Mr. Coppin has thoroughly fulfilled the promises made when he first took the Victoria Theatre, and reiterated when he became lessee of the Prince of Wales, that he purposed producing attractive novelties, having a good company, and introducing the best available star talent, and having done so, deserves some recognition from the patrons of the drama. Mr. Coppin's farewell performances are to be under the special patronage of H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburgh, and will commence this evening with Forty and Fifty, followed by Milky White, in which Mr. Coppin will sustain the principal character. The Sleeping Beauty with the closing tableau of the pantomime will conclude the entertainment.

THE GREAT WORLD CIRCUS.—This place of amusement was well patronised last evening, and the several feats of horsemanship, &c., were well received. The slack rope and comic scenes on horseback by Mr. Bird were specially worthy of mention, as were also the athletic performances of the Messrs. Ridgeway and Nelson. The entertainment was brought to a close with the equestrian drama of Turpin's Ride to York, the character of the notorious highwayman being performed by Mr. Abel.

RAPHAEL'S AUSTRALIAN CIRCUS.—The audience attracted to this sometime popular place of amusement was not very numerous last night, the house being far from full. The entertainment, however, bated none of its merits, and was in every respect satisfactory to those who witnessed it. Not the least pleasant part of the evening's amusement was the drollery of Mr. Cooke, whose humorous jests and quaint recitals created much laughter.

FAREWELL RECITALS.—An excellent evening's entertainment is provided at the Masonic Hall, this evening, by Miss Aitken and Mr. T. P. Hill—whose readings have been received with marked appreciation. The readings will be interspersed with musical selections, both vocal and instrumental, by Mr. C. E. Horsley, Miss James, and Mr. Jackson. It will be seen on reference to the programme that the price of admission is exceedingly moderate, the gallery being only one shilling. Miss Aitken undertakes the more pathetic portion of the recitals, and Mr. Hill the comical portion.

ACCIDENT IN THE DOMAIN.—Yesterday afternoon a horse, with a dogcart attached to it, bolted along the road leading to the Baths, and in its course knocked down two ladies, who were seriously injured. The runaway horse then came into collision with a cab, and both vehicles were smashed, the driver of the cab being much bruised—the chest of one of the horses was ripped open. Dr. Gilhooley was fortunately near the spot, and attended to the injured ladies.

FIRE.—About a quarter to 11 on Wednesday night, a fire broke out in a house, 139, Gipps-street. The members of the Volunteer Fire Company No. 1, with their engine, were quickly on the spot, and managed to extinguish it before much damage was done. Having reached the second story by the aid of a ladder, a child (the only inmate at the time) was discovered asleep, nearly suffocated, and rescued by a member of the above company.

STREET ACCIDENTS.—On Thursday a collision took place near the Haymarket, between one of the Enmore omnibuses and the van of Messrs. Prince, Bray, and Ogg. Both vehicles were much damaged, but no personal injury was sustained by the passengers.—Yesterday morning, as Mr. Favelle's omnibus was plying between Newtown and Sydney, one of the horses began kicking, and broke its leg against the pole. The condition of many horses in our public vehicles and the rickety state and want of adaptation of some of the vehicles show the necessity of a much more strict supervision than has yet been exercised.

THE WEATHER IN THE COUNTRY.—The Kiama Pilot of Thursday says:—As the severity of the drought and its lamentable effects furnished a proper occasion for a day of humiliation and prayer last week, the change which has since taken place seems to afford us no less proper subject for thanksgiving. One day's light rain had, indeed, preceded; but the good effects produced by it must soon have disappeared if the heat and dry winds had recommenced. We have had, fortunately, ever since Thursday last, a continuance of cool and showery weather; and during almost the whole of Tuesday night and yesterday there was a steady fall of rain. The whole appearance and colour of the district are changed, and the maximum of benefit has been derived from the rain we have had in consequence of its gentle and gradual descent. It is no uncommon thing here to experience a rainfall of ten or twenty times the volume, without a tithe of the benefit likely to follow in the present case.—The Moruya Correspondent of the Braidwood Dispatch reports:—Last Thursday evening commenced with a very heavy thunder storm, and continued until Friday night, filling up all the waterholes. All our district is again covered with grass, but had we not had rain things would have been serious to our farmers. The maize is everything that could be wished for, and the rain has just come in time for our winter feed.

LAMENTABLE DEATH OF A MACLEAY RIVER SETTLER.—Captain Crosby, of the coasting trader West Hartley No. 1, which arrived in Sydney this morning, with a cargo of produce, from the Macleay River, has called to inform us of the lamentable death of a passenger named Donald M'Kay, who fell overboard and was drowned at sea yesterday, when the vessel was off Port Stephens, which bore W.N.W., distant about ten miles. The unfortunate deceased, who was a farmer on the Macleay, and had a quantity of maize on board, was sitting at dinner at the companion hatch, when a heavy beam sea struck the vessel, which gave a lurch, throwing M'Kay off his seat and down to leeward, where the rail struck him below the waist, and he toppled overboard. A lifebuoy was immediately thrown over, and the ship put round by the captain, while the mate, by his order, got the boat out. All this was done in about ten minutes, and in the meantime M'Kay, who appeared to be an excellent swimmer, and pulled off his coat while in the water, had struck out for the vessel. Passing the lifebuoy, he made for the boat, which was within thirty yards of him when he suddenly disappeared — whether attacked by cramp or seized by a shark could not be known. The boat continued pulling about the spot for about twenty minutes, but the unfortunate man appeared no more.

GRAFTON CATHEDRAL.—Although not more personally interested in this subject than any other of our fellow townsmen, we (Grafton Observer) cannot but call special attention to the proposal of the Bishop, to build a minster at a cost of £10,000, and when we look seriously at the matter we think that, bold as the project is, it is not unreasonable; also, if it can be accomplished, it will be one of the best things (aside from an ecclesiastical point of view) that can be done for Grafton at the present time. The idea of spending £10,000 in Grafton on one structure! In addition to its being the forerunner of other buildings of a less pretentious and of a more private character, it will introduce into our town a host of mechanics. From a secular and commercial point of view we take the Bishop's boldness, and his proposal, as it involves a dozen other good things, and believe that he has already fairly estimated the material whence he expects to raise the necessary funds. To make a commencement only half the amount proposed need be raised—say £5000, the other half realised as a loan. Now it is well known that we have many wealthy squatters in the Clarence and Richmond districts, who can well afford, and we believe have sufficient liberality to give, £100 or £200 each. Suppose forty gave £100 each, this would be £4000. Then leave the other £1000 for Grafton, half of which has been already promised.

SIR GEORGE GREY, SIR GEORGE BOWEN, AND THE DUKE.—The Wellington correspondent of the Otago Times states that on the 6th instant letters were received from Governor Bowen, informing the Government that he had received despatches expressing regret at the delay in sending out his Commission, which, owing to Her Majesty being in Scotland, could not be submitted in Council in time for the current October Suez mail, but would be forwarded via Panama on the 1st of December. This necessitated his already once postponed arrival to be still further postponed; but by the steamer reaching here on the 6th February, he would be sure to arrive. On the 7th, the Falcon steamed in to salute his Excellency, and finding that he had not arrived, has taken up her berth until the Commodore can be communicated with, which, as he is about leaving Auckland for Sydney, no further orders could have arrived for some time, if the Commodore had not become aware of Sir George Grey's despatches. In the interval between the Suez and Panama mails, it appears that for some reason or other the Colonial Office has determined to request Sir George Grey to remain in New Zealand as Governor until the Duke has left; and that with his despatches by the Panama mail a letter was forwarded requesting him to carry out that determination, and stating that Sir George Bowen's commission would be kept back until February or March. As the Duke is not now expected to reach New Zealand until early in April, this keeps Sir George Grey in the colony until June. The Sturt was waiting in Auckland to convey the despatches to Kawau the moment they arrived, his Excellency having determined—so the story goes—to sail in the Challenger immediately afterwards for Sydney, where he would meet the Duke as a private gentleman. He was unprepared for such a request, but, of course, complied with it. Sir George's movements are uncertain, but he cannot be long before he returns to Wellington, where public business requires the signature of the Governor to expedite it. What a fortunate man Sir George Grey is. How something always turns up in his favour. That something has turned up now is a matter of great rejoicing to every one, both for Sir George's own sake and for that of the reception due to the Duke. It is something to be requested to remain, after having been so unhandsomely treated as Sir George was; and the Royal Reception Commission will now be able to fill up two or three weeks' programme with "travelling in the interior"—a mode of occupying the Duke's time which it was very doubtful whether it could have been undertaken, under the guidance of a new Governor, on account of the political character given to the Duke's visit in connection with the change of Governors.

A COLONY OF SNAKES.—The Moruya correspondent of the Braidwood Dispatch affirms that Mr. William Coman, of Eurobodalla, along with his sons, was pulling up the floor of an old barn last week, when they found underneath over 70 black snakes, all of which they soon killed. Twenty more were killed while reaping out in a paddock near the house, making a total sum of ninety-nine. An old friend, the schoolmaster, Mr. M'Grath, killed over twenty, besides a death adder; this ought to be a caution.

ASSAULTING A CHILD.—The Border Post states that a charge of rape has been preferred against Mr. O'Hare, of Tumberumba, the owner of the racing mare Riverina. He was arrested on Tuesday, by virtue of a warrant. The prosecutrix is an interesting little girl 11½ years of age, the daughter of Mr. Thomas Bullock of the Sportsman's Arms Hotel. It is alleged that the offence was committed as the child was passing through a paddock on her way to school. O'Hare was to appear before the Albury Bench on Wednesday.

Of twelve prisoners brought before the Court, five were discharged, and three were remanded.

Edward Humfries was charged with stealing. George Iden, of Woolloomooloo, boat builder, deposed that, on Friday night last, the prisoner slept at his (witness's) house, and with two other persons in the same room; he (witness) went to bed about 4 o'clock in the morning of Saturday, and before lying down, put his purse, containing eight £1 notes and two half-sovereigns, under his pillow; he was about 8 and left the room [illegible] past 10 o'clock he went for his money, and it was gone; it was under the pillow when he left the room at 9 o'clock. Mary Green deposed that on Saturday afternoon prisoner came to her house in Castlereagh-street, and he then had eight £1 notes; he "shouted" four times for all hands, and took them to the circus at night; and she gave him an old purse to put his money in. At the circus prisoner was given into custody on the charge. No money or purse was found on searching the prisoner. Committed for trial at Quarter Sessions. Bail allowed.

Henry Haigh, brought from Goulburn on warrant, charged with having deserted his male infant child, consented to an order for 7s. 6d. a week for twelve months.

Joseph Dunn was charged with having assaulted a constable in the execution of his duty. Sergeant Goldrick deposed that, on the afternoon of the 21st of January, the captain of the steamer Morpeth gave the defendant into custody for being drunk and disorderly. No sooner, however, did he lay a hand upon defendant than he gave him a severe kick, from the effects of which he is still suffering. To pay a penalty of £5, or to be imprisoned two months.

William Harris was summarily convicted of having stolen a coat, the property of Patrick Maloney, and was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

On the summons paper were twenty-six cases, of which nine were dismissed, three were postponed, and eight were struck out. George Richardson was fined 40s. for endangering public safety by furiously driving an omnibus on the Newtown Road; Christopher Lenehan was fined 2s. 6d. for obstructing the footway with boxes of tea; Patrick O'Brien was fined 2s. 6d. for riotous behaviour; and Thomas Jones was fined 5s. for being drunk and disorderly. Michael Glynn was found guilty of damaging, by digging upon, certain land in Cleveland-street, belonging to Sir D. Cooper, and was ordered to pay damages, 40s. In Willis v. Batten, for wages, their Worships made an order for the complainant, and allowed the defendant seven days to pay the amount.

THE ROSTER.—Messrs. Danger, Bray, and Bardekin have been summoned for Bench duty on Saturday.

WATER POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE the Water Police Magistrate, with Mr. H. Armitage and Mr. J. Chisholm.

James Jacques was fined 20s., or to be imprisoned three days, and James Sidwell, Mary Ann Brown, and Richard Brough 5s. each, or twenty-four hours in the cells, for disorderly conduct in the streets.

Winifred Dickson, 19, was brought up on a charge of stealing a petticoat, value 10s., the property of Edward Nesbyth. Prosecutor lives in Bathurst-street, and prisoner was brought there by another young woman who was lodging at the house. She left the next morning, and it was found that she had stolen the garment in question. It appeared that she had only just been released from gaol, having been imprisoned for disorderly conduct in the Infirmary. She was now sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour.

George King, 60, described as a groom, was charged with stealing from the person. Edward Pritchard, a resident at Enmore, stated in evidence that whilst in the crowd attending the procession of the Prince, and when he was standing near the Government House gate in Macquarie-street, prisoner was beside him for half-an-hour. Just as the Royal carriage was entering the gate prisoner made a snatch at his watch, which was in his waistcoat pocket. Prosecutor had hold of the silk guard, but prisoner snatched away the watch and bolted. An alarm was given, and prisoner was stopped after he had got away ten or twelve yards, and the watch was found at his feet. In answer to their Worships he affirmed his entire innocence, and declared that he never saw the watch. He was, however, convicted, the value being stated as under £2, and he was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour.

William Lowick, 22, chief officer of the Titana, appeared on bail, charged with assaulting John Perry, licensee of the Freemasons' Hotel. Mr. Cory for the prosecution, Mr. Greer for the defence. The assault was admitted by defendant, but there was a plea of great provocation. It appeared that prosecutor was provedore of the ship Titana, on the occasion of the Prince's arrival, and that on the evening of the 21st instant he left on board, in the captain's charge, a quantity of liquors and wine bottles of champagne. Going on board next day he found all had been consumed. When he met the captain he complained of the loss, and said he had seen defendant drunk. Defendant went to prosecutor and some words having passed with regard to defendant's participation in the robbery, defendant struck prosecutor in the mouth, cutting his lip and knocking him down. For the defence it was stated that prosecutor having, on challenge from defendant, repeated the statement that he, with others, took the liquors and wine, and having also, when defendant gave a denial, called him a liar, defendant struck him on the face. The Bench, taking into consideration the provocation, fined defendant 20s. with 1s. costs.

John Riley, 28, charged with wilfully damaging a door, in the house of William Newlands, Rose of Australia Inn, George-street, stated that he was drunk at the time. He was ordered to pay 2s. the amount of damage.

William Blue, found guilty of a common assault upon his wife, was committed to gaol for one month.

Ellen Tyne, 22, was brought up by senior constable Miller, charged with attempting to commit suicide. She was a domestic servant in the employ of Captain M'Dermott, of Campbell-street, Balmain. At 10 o'clock last night she was found at his house lying in bed with her throat cut, the wound evidently having been inflicted whilst she stood before a looking-glass, and with an ordinary dinner knife. Two knives, a large one and a small one, both bearing marks of blood, were found outside the window of the room, which is on the ground floor. The incoherence and extravagance of the woman's remarks afforded proof that that she was labouring under unsoundness of mind. She stated that a man came into the room pretending that he wanted a match, and after trying to get her up in a corner, cut her throat in bed. She was remanded till Tuesday next for medical treatment.

SYDNEY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

A MEETING of the Municipal Council of Sydney was held yesterday morning, at the Town Hall, Wynyard-square. Present—His Worship the Mayor (in the chair), and Aldermen Pritchard, Bradford, Butler, Macintosh, Caraher, Murphy, Kidman, Kippax, and Hurley.

MINUTES.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

REPORT.

A report was brought up from the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—General account, £733 6s. 9d.; water account, £2941 1s. 6d.; sewerage account, £237 16s. 10d.; Sydney Common, £409.

QUESTION.—THE PAVILION.

Alderman CARAHER asked whether his Worship the Mayor had given a promise of the pavilion in Hyde Park for the purpose of holding the opposition ball; and, if so, whether the Council had sanctioned the same?

The MAYOR said it was rather unusual to allow a discussion to take place when a question was asked; but as this was an important matter, he desired to have the opinion of the Council upon it. He would, however, first call upon the Town Clerk to read some correspondence which had taken place on the subject.

The Town Clerk then read the following correspondence:—

"Victoria Club, January 6, 1868.

"Sir,—By the direction of a sub-committee appointed at a meeting of the committee of the public ball to H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, I have the honour to request that you will be good enough to inform me at what time, and under what conditions, you will place at the disposal of the public the pavilion erected in Hyde Park.

"Yours respectfully,

"D. EGAN.

"To the Right Worshipful the Mayor of Sydney."

Town Hall, January 8, 1868.

Sir,—I am directed by the Ball Committee to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 6th instant, requesting to be informed "at what time, and under what conditions, the pavilion, now in course of erection in Hyde Park, will be placed at the disposal of the public," and, in reply, to inform you that a the Committee intend placing the pavilion at the disposal of the public; but they cannot at present state the day it will be at liberty, or the amount which will be charged for it.

I am, &c.,

W. HANSON, Secretary.

To D. Egan, Esq., M.P., Victoria Club.

Alderman BRADFORD thought the attempt which was being made by certain parties to get up an opposition ball ought to meet with general condemnation. Long before the public meeting was held at the Exchange, it was well known that the Council intended getting up a citizens' ball on a large scale. He certainly thought the Council ought to refuse the use of the pavilion for an opposition ball.

Alderman MACINTOSH said that at the time the signatures of several of the aldermen were obtained to a requisition to call a public meeting, the proposition was to have a picnic and banquet. It was after their signatures had been obtained that the meeting at the Exchange decided to have a ball. Those aldermen, therefore, who had been induced to sign the requisition calling the meeting, had had their names put on the Public Ball Committee under false pretences. He did not consider the public were at all represented at the meeting held at the Exchange. The aldermen, he felt sure, would not refuse the public the use of the pavilion, if a proper guarantee for the safety of the building were given, and some recompense made for the use of it. He would willingly give the public the use of the pavilion for a ball or for any other purpose, if proper application was made to them.

Alderman KIDMAN was of opinion that permission to use the pavilion ought not to be granted to those gentlemen who professed to represent the public, and who were trying to get up an opposition ball.

Alderman PRITCHARD considered the Council ought not to allow the use of the pavilion to those gentlemen who had applied for it. The few individuals who were moving in the matter were unable to get up a ball or anything of the kind. They had acted in a most impertinent manner towards the Council; and in their endeavours to smuggle what did not belong to them, and what they had no right to, they were making use of the names of gentlemen who were averse to having the citizens' ball interfered with in any way. The Council had gone to great expense so as to make the citizens' ball a great success; they would put most valuable furniture into the pavilion; and if they granted the use of it to any individual, without a sufficient guarantee that the building and furniture would be taken care of, they would be acting unjustly towards the citizens.

Alderman MURPHY thought an opposition ball would interfere with the citizens' ball very much; and as a large amount of the citizens' money had been laid out in getting up the ball, the Council ought to use every means in their power to make the affair a success, that some return might be made for the outlay. The whole secret of the matter was this, those gentlemen who were trying to get up a public ball were doing so more for the sake of opposition to the Government than to the citizens' ball. He had no objection to granting to those gentlemen the use of the pavilion, providing they gave the Council proper security for the safety of the building and furniture, and paid a reasonable sum of money for the use of the building. Under no circumstances ought the Council to allow the pavilion to be used for an opposition ball.

Alderman BUTLER objected to allow the use of the pavilion for an opposition ball. He had opposed such a thing all along, and would stand out against it to the last.

Alderman HURLEY would never consent to allow the pavilion to be used for the purpose of an opposition ball. He considered the Council had been treated very shabbily by the gentlemen forming the Public Ball Committee; and he would not let those gentlemen have the use of the pavilion, on account of the shameful manner in which they had endeavoured to "burke" the citizens' ball.

On the question being put, the Aldermen voted unanimously against the Mayor allowing the Public Ball Committee the use of the pavilion for an opposition ball.

FINANCE.

It was moved by Alderman BRADFORD, seconded by Alderman PRITCHARD, and carried, "That the report of the Finance Committee, received this day, recommending the payment of sundry accounts, be adopted."

The Council then rose.

INTERCOLONIAL NEWS.

VICTORIA.

OUR Melbourne files are to the 20th instant.

A gold-miner, named John Hancock, was charged at the City Police Court, on Saturday, by a man named John Kavanagh with compounding a felony. The circumstances of the case wear a curious aspect. Kavanagh had been recently committed for trial for stealing a bag containing £149 from Hancock, at the Kildare Hotel, Little Collins-street. After his committal, Kavanagh was admitted to bail. Happening to meet with Hancock at an hotel in Swanston-street, Kavanagh offered him (Hancock) a sum of money if he would stay further proceedings in the pending prosecution. After some bargaining, Hancock agreed to accept the sum of £70. He had hardly received a cheque for the money, when Kavanagh gave him into custody for compounding a felony. The check which Hancock received from Kavanagh was post-dated, and there were no funds in the bank to meet it. On the application of the police, the case was remanded. Hancock was admitted to bail in his own recognisance of £100.—Argus.

A fearful accident took place on Thursday morning last at Wahring, near Avenel, to a young man named O'Shea, who, whilst engaged at a threshing machine, had his leg drawn in with the machinery and completely shattered and mangled from the hip downwards. The unfortunate sufferer lived for several hours afterwards, but died on the road to Kilmore, to where he was being removed.—Age.

NEW ZEALAND.

From Lyttelton we are receipt of files to the 10th, from Otago to the 13th, and from Invercargill to the 14th.

Suspicions are entertained by several runholders, the Otago Times states, that sheep-stealing has been carried on very extensively in the country south of the Molyneux. Some years ago, in one season between shearing and the month of March, Mr. Clapcott lost at Popotunoa about a thousand sheep, and the number lost by Mr. Spooner and other runholders, if mentioned, would appear fabulous. At first, it was supposed they had died through eating the Tutu plant; but this hypothesis did not unravel the mystery, for no carcases were found. Extensive losses are this season reported in the Pomahaka and surrounding districts, one proprietor having discovered a large deficiency for which he cannot account. At Kaiwera, forty-three wethers were taken out of a fenced paddock in one week, and a reward has been offered for information concerning them. The runholders are proposing to enter into an association for mutual protection, and to offer large rewards for conviction of the thieves.

The Timaru Herald of the 1st instant says:—"Another, and a rather severe, shock of earthquake was felt in many parts of the district on Saturday morning, about 1 o'clock. The shock was felt by numbers of people in town, who were woke up by the noise made by the moving of glasses in their bedrooms. We have received accounts from the Orari and the Cave of the shock being felt in each of those districts. To the south of Timaru it was also felt, and at once recognised."

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Would you be so kind as to allow me room in your valuable journal to insert the following few remarks relative to the late massacre at the settlement of Rubiana, New Georgia (Solomon Group), of Captain Delany and all his ship's company, and which now calls upon the Government to which they belonged to avenge, and who, when such wrongs are inflicted, are always ready and brave enough to punish.

Considering the number of ships of war in Port Jackson, surely the gallant Commodore on this station will not stand by and hear of so many of his countrymen and British subjects being mercilessly butchered by these savages and pirates, without trying to bring the murderers to justice. I am credibly informed that there are no less than three schooners, one whale ship, and four boats, the crews of which they have taken and murdered, besides three attempts, within the space of seven years; also the schooner Chance very nearly became a prey to those relentless wretches, only for the shrewdness of Captain M'Gregor and his activity as a seaman, as well as his thorough knowledge of the natives.

Lendo, the King of the settlement of Rubiana, together with Tepala another of the Chiefs, who were the principal actors, assisted by their men, in the massacre on board the Marion Renny, are the principal movers in all the above-named massacres, and I consider it the duty of the Government to dispatch a ship of war at once to teach those natives a lesson by demanding those Chiefs (Lendo and Tepala) and punishing them as they deserve.

The interests of vessels trading to those islands will be completely lost sight of, and no knowing what amount of property and lives will be sacrificed, unless something be done.

As I hear that the Captain of the Chance was warned by friendly natives that a plan was laid to take him at several islands, no doubt that another voyage for the Chance to those islands will be at a great risk of the loss of the vessel and all hands, unless one of H. M. ships now in harbour proceeds at once before she goes again.

Lendo and Tepala consider no power superior to theirs, although they are great cowards and very much afraid of firearms. I believe that if a man-of-war went to the place where the massacre occurred that they could exact payment from the natives in the way of tortoiseshell for the loss of those people's lives, as well as the plunder of all the goods.

On one occasion before, when Captain Delany lost his vessel through the unfriendliness of the natives of Wallis Island in not running a warp out for him in the narrow passage to that harbour, he having no boats at that time, they being lost at a neighbouring island, the result was that Captain Delany on his arrival in Sydney reported it to the then commodore on the station (Commodore Loring), who at once sent H. M. S. Elk (Captain Champion), who awarded Captain Delany 25 tuns cocoanut oil for the robbery by the natives of that island of his trade goods, casks, &c. This payment was enforced by another of H. M. ships, and ultimately paid.

Hoping the Government will not treat this dreadful murder lightly, but at once dispatch one of the ships of war to punish the murderers and seek restitution for the plundered property, and teach them for the future that the white man is more powerful than them,—for until this be done there is no security for life or property,—

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,

JOSEPH W. DELANY, Jun., Son of the late Captain Delany.

"ORDER" IN THE METROPOLIS OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—As the presiding magistrate of the crime court at the Central Police Office in Sydney, held this day, I cannot refrain from entering upon record the fact that, notwithstanding the estimate that over 100,000 persons are at present in the metropolis, only ONE case of drunkenness was brought before the court to-day, and NOT ONE for riotous conduct. If THIS does not of itself speak volumes for the sobriety and good behaviour of the people of this colony, I know not what does. I take it, that it unmistakeably demonstrates that we may fairly lay claim to, and be proud to be—of British descent.

THE CITIZENS' BALL.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—I cannot conceive how the Ball Committee expect one band to efficiently perform for some 4000 or 5000 persons. It has always been usual in Victoria to have two bands of music, one to relieve the other, so that when one set of dancers has finished, another set might form at once; this arrangement being necessary, as all the parties present cannot in most cases dance at one time.

Many persons who intend being present at the ball have spoken to me on the subject; and as only one band is advertised to perform, I take the liberty of suggesting that for the success of the same there should be two bands employed to give éclat to the affair.

January 21st. SCRIBO.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—If not contrary to your views, the publication in the Herald of the accompanying might render good service to some unthinking minds, and perhaps prevent in future, if not now, the introduction of plays, of the character referred to, into the institutions of the country.

B.

24th January, 1868.

From the late Archbishop of Dublin's "Elements of Rhetoric," page 291, note.

"To those who do wish their sons to imbibe the morality of 'Terence,' I have, of course, nothing more to say. But if there are any, as I must hope there are not a few, who would deprecate such a result, and who yet patronise the practice in question, I cannot but express my unfeigned wonder at their doing so. Can they doubt that some effect is likely to be produced on a young and unformed mind, forwarder [illegible] by heart merely—but studying as an actor, and striving to deliver with effect the part of an accomplished debauchee? And this too, such a character as Terence's poetical justice never fails to crown with success and applause. The foulest obscenity, such as would create disgust in any delicate mind, would probably be less likely to corrupt the principles than the more gentlemanlike profligacy, which is not merely represented, but recommended in 'Terence,' and which approaches but too nearly to what the youth may find exemplified among the higher classes in this country. Will it be answered that because these same boys are taught to say their Catechism, are sent to chapel, and are given to understand that they are not to take Pamphilus as a model, a sufficient safeguard is thus provided against the effects of an assiduous effort to gain applause by a lively and spirited representation of such a character? * * * * * If the practice is capable of vindication, let it receive one—if not, let it be abolished. * * * * Let the experiment be tried, of placing in the hands of the mothers of the boys, when they come to witness the exhibition, a close translation of the play their sons are acting. I will be satisfied to abide by the decision of the right-minded and judicious among them."

INQUEST ON A CHINAMAN SHOT BY A POLICEMAN.—The Braidwood Dispatch reports that on Saturday evening the coroner, Dr. Pattison, and a jury of twelve viewed the body of Mei On Sing, a Chinese confined in Braidwood gaol, who died at 11 o'clock that morning. Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the coroner returned from Araluen the inquiry as to the cause of the death of the deceased was adjourned till Monday, when it took place in the Court House, and the following evidence was taken. Senior constable Stapylton, of Major's Creek, deposed that from information he had received he proceeded in company with constable Matthews, to a hut at Jembaicumbene on the morning of the 1st January; reached the hut he was in search of about 4 a.m.; after knocking two or three times they pushed the door open; they found the prisoner lying on a bed, but not undressed; they handcuffed him and while they were searching for stolen property of various kinds which was lying about the hut the prisoner rushed past him and attempted to make his escape into the Chinese camp close by; witness and Matthews ran after him, and he (witness) fired upon him after summoning him to stand. The above is the substance of Stapylton's evidence which was fully corroborated by the evidence of constable Matthews, who deposed as follows:—I am a constable in the Braidwood police force stationed at Major's Creek; I proceeded with senior-constable Stapylton to Jembaicumbene on the morning of the 2nd January; on arrival at Jembaicumbene went to the hut of Mei On Sing; shoved the door open and found him lying in bed with his clothes on; searched the hut and found some stolen property; senior-constable Stapylton told him he was his prisoner; I handcuffed him; I was looking under the bed and heard a rush to the door; turning round I saw him running, having slipped the handcuffs; he was about thirty yards off senior-constable Stapylton who was running after him and calling on him to stand; then saw Stapylton fire at him; I snapped my revolver twice at him and cocked it again, the Chinaman still continued running; as he was getting close to the camp Stapylton fired again and the Chinaman went down on his hands and face, got up and started off again; Stapylton overtook him and pulled him down; I came up and the Chinaman was struggling against one of the stores; caught hold of him and in doing so my revolver went off and grazed my own thumb and shot the Chinaman in the thumb; brought him back to the hut; handcuffed him immediately on his re-capture, and on examining him found he was shot through the back; we then procured a horse and cart and brought him into Braidwood; had he got into the camp I am of opinion he would have escaped. By a juror: Saw the Chinaman again dead last Saturday evening; when we took him the second time he was inside the camp leaning against the door of a house. Thomas J. Roberts, of Jembaicumbene, deposed that he had lost a number of things from petty thefts about, and he identified a spoon and bolster as his property; a great number of thefts were perpetrated on Mr. Hassall and Mr. Drumfield. Daniel North, employed as coachman with Mr. Scarvell, identified a toasting fork as Mr. Scarvell's property; Mr. Scarvell's place was robbed about a week before Christmas; he also identified a towel as Mr. Scarvell's property by his name being marked upon it. Mr. Walker, gaoler of Braidwood gaol, deposed that deceased was brought to the gaol on the evening of the 2nd on the charge of stealing from a dwelling; he was suffering from a gunshot wound, for which he was visited by the visiting surgeon and Dr. Moreton; on the 9th instant he made a dying declaration which was witnessed before the Visiting Justice. [This declaration, which was taken through an interpreter, merely recounted the circumstances under which deceased had been shot, which tallied with the constables' story precisely, assigning as the reason for his running away that he could not answer the police without an interpreter.] He lingered on till the morning of the 18th instant when he died at 11 o'clock a.m. Selby Mare Moreton, duly qualified medical practitioner, residing in Braidwood, deposed that on the 18th January he made a post mortem examination on the body of deceased in the Braidwood gaol; upon examination found the body extremely emaciated; he described the wounds and believed the deceased to have been killed by a gunshot wound, the bullet having entered behind and traversed the cavity of the abdomen; there was no hole of exit, but believed the bullet to have been removed from near the skin about two inches to the right of the navel. The jury, immediately at the close of the evidence, [illegible]

THE FRENCH EXHIBITION.

[FROM OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENT.]

PARIS, NOVEMBER 6.

THE honour of having furnished the most brilliant portions of the exhibition of pictures now being taken down from the walls, that will so soon be resolved into their original brick and mortar, will generally be admitted to have fallen to Belgium and Bavaria; their contributions, though comparatively limited in number, having consisted, almost exclusively, of masterpieces, each of which might fairly claim to merit the detailed description which want of space renders impossible here. Conspicuous among the works of the Belgian artists are the great historical paintings by Leys, De Biefve, De Groux, De Taeye, Mathieu, Pauwels, Robert, Saulen, Thomas, and Van Severdonck; the magnificent landscapes by Bohm, Bossuet, Boulanger, De Knyff, Fourmois, Jacobs, Kindermans, Kuhnen, Lamorinière, Quinaux, Scheggany, Roffiaen, and Warwee; the portraits by De Winne, and O'Connell; Clays's marine pieces; Dillens' ice and snow; the flowers and fruit by Robie and Robbe; the charming genre pieces of Willems, Stevens, De Vriendt, Verlat, Hangold, Campotosto, De Jonghe, Du Bois, Hamman, Leys, Markelbach, Smits, Stallaert, and Verheyden; the cattle, sheep, dogs, and still life, by Stevens, De Noter, Notermen, Van Kuyck, Verlat, Warwee, and the masterly street scenes and splendid interiors by Stroobant and Van Moer.

Among the Bavarian painters that have attracted the largest share of admiration may be cited, for their superb treatment of historical subjects, Cornelius, Kaulbach, Kehl, Piloty, De Hess, Adam, Brandt, Kotzebue, Horschelt, Echter, Voltz, Schorn, Schwindt, Genelli, Cornelius, Krause, Ebert, Scheriel, Stademann, Griel, Lotz, Hennings, Gabbert, Waagen, Ludwig, Zimmermann, Bende, Folingsby, Millner, Lange, Heinlein, Bamberger, Morgenstern, Steffan, Gebhardt, Lattner, Zwengauer, and Metzner, in landscape; Velty, Schleich, Klein, Gebler, Jatz, Bodel, Stauth, Hofner, Hartmann, and Lang, as painters of village scenes; Grunewald, the painter of common life; a host of brilliant painters of genre, among whom Schlesinger, Martin, Pacht, Baumgartner, Neustaetter, Schultz, Eberle, Vischer, Kirner, Spitzweg, Zimmermann, Flele, Max, and Kochert, are perhaps the most remarkable; Kirchner, Nohel, Auberle, Knab, Hoff, and Mecklenburg, in architecture and interiors; among portrait painters, Fussell, Lenbach, Correns, Grenfe, and Muller.

As for the varied treasures of the Gallery containing illustrations of the arts and manufactures of the various eras of the world's existence, from the uncertain dates of the oldest remains that have come down to us until the centuries nearest to the one we live in, no amount of description could do them justice, not only because of the immense quantity of objects of every kind—stone and bronze implements, utensils, and arms; armoury of all ages; ornamental works in gold, silver, damascening, ivory, &c.; manuscripts, embroideries, lace, tapestry, jewellery, carved wood, iron, brass, marble, onyx, wax, amber, rock crystal, porcelain, glass, clay, and mother-of-pearl—but also because the peculiarities of make, style, and character, constituting their chief interest and importance, must be seen, compared, and discriminated, to be understood.

The same remark, to a certain extent, may be made in regard to every other portion of the great Show, now sluming the wonderful power of resisting fire inherent in his safes. When we reached our destination, G. being anxious to acquire an appetite for the oysters, we perambulated the market, which I found so interesting that I cannot do better than briefly recount some of its most remarkable features. Fulton market is built in the form of a square, and is covered in throughout with glass. It forms a complete little town itself, and contains within its wooden walls stores of almost every kind of necessaries. The chief entrance is not through gates, but by a species of arcade or passage, which is, in fact, a continuation of the street foot-pavement, and therefore always open. Two of these arcades run at right angles to each other, bounding the body of the market on two sides; and the various passages into the central portion branch off from them. Business goes on here without cessation (except on Sundays) all the year round; and crowds of people, of almost every nation on the globe, pass and repass from morning till night. There are separate compartments for the sale of meat, fish, poultry, and vegetables; rows of fruit stores, with the tempting products of the southern soil hanging in groves from the roof, and covering the counters in endless profusion. Poultry was, at the time of my visit, sold at sixpence a pound; geese, turkeys, and ducks, the same. Wild ducks were cheap and plentiful; bunches of squirrels were hung up, being much esteemed. In the vegetable department are found every kind of pumpkin, melons, squashes, and egg-plants. The latter, when sliced and fried, taste much like an oyster, and require the digestive powers of an ostrich in the consumer. Tomatoes are here, as everywhere else in the city, sold in great quantities. This is a very favourite vegetable (or fruit) in FRENCH MEDICINES, prepared by GRIMAULT and CO., Chemists to H. I. H. Prince Napoleon, Paris. These different medicines represent the most recent medical discoveries, founded on the principles of chemistry and therapeutics. They must not be confounded with secret or quack medicines, as their names sufficiently indicate their composition; a circumstance which has caused them to be appreciated and prescribed by the faculty in the whole world. They widely differ from those numerous medicines advertised in the public papers as able to cure every possible disease, as they are applicable only to but a very few complaints. The most stringent laws exist in France with regard to the sale of medical preparations, and only those which have undergone an examination by the ACADEMY OF MEDICINE, and have been proved efficacious, either in the hospitals or in the practice of the first medical men, are authorised by the Government. This fact must be a guarantee for the excellency of Messrs. GRIMAULT ET CIE.'s medicines.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

THE REVIEW.

FROM forty to fifty thousand persons assembled in the Outer Domain yesterday afternoon at the review of the military and volunteer forces by his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh. The review itself was, doubtless, a matter of considerable interest, more especially to visitors from the country, but the attendance of so vast a multitude must be attributed chiefly to the presence of the Prince, to whom the demonstration of loyalty must have been very gratifying. The time appointed for the review does not appear to have been generally known, for as early as 1 o'clock in the day all the approaches leading to the Domain were thronged by spectators; and three hours later, when the review began, the whole of the Domain (excepting only the space reserved for the troops) from the Macquarie-street entrance to the road leading from College-street was crowded by the populace. The parapets and balconies of the terraces at the north-west corner of the Domain were lined with spectators. Scores of adventurous on-lookers were perched on the wall enclosing the Parliament Houses; others climbed into the branches of the trees, and every eminence was appropriated by eager sight-seers. The carriage drives near the outer circle of the crowd were chiefly occupied by vehicles and horsemen. The concourse of so large a number of colonists would, under any circumstances, be an interesting sight, but the Domain has never been the arena of a more splendid spectacle than that presented by the thousands who graced its slopes yesterday afternoon. Everybody seemed to be dressed in holiday attire, and the varied shades of colour combined with the brightness and beauty of the landscape to form a very pleasing picture. Cheerfulness and perfect order prevailed. The demonstration, however, was not simply interesting on account of its imposing dimensions, but had a special significance in that it was an intelligent recognition of the honour due to the representative of constituted authority, and it was at the same time a becoming expression of our love and loyalty to the reigning monarch.

The weather was in pleasant contrast with the rain which fell in the early part of the week. People could move about the streets without having their clothes destroyed by the mud, and the recent rains have given a freshness to the vegetation which ought to gladden every heart in the community. But it certainly was hot, and the caloric in the atmosphere would have been enough to prevent any but the most languid manifestation of the loyalty of a people whose devotion to the Queen was less ardent than that of New South Welchmen. Just before the review began, the western sky became clouded, so as to moderate the temperature and soften the light.

The Volunteer Artillery was first on the ground, and took up a position on the south side of the vacant space, the Queen's Own Regiment and the Volunteer Rifles were drawn up in line on the west side, and the Naval Brigade on the north—the whole forming three sides of a quadrangle. If our opinion is worth anything, the men looked remarkably well, and went through the few evolutions on the programme in a style that was highly creditable. Anybody accustomed to the "pomp and circumstance of war" might consider the display as rather feeble in point of numbers; but we take exception to any comparisons based solely on numerical strength, and we may be pardoned, while we honour the "regulars," if we are proud of our Volunteers—proud not only of their patriotism, but also of their discipline.

His Royal Highness arrived on the ground precisely at 4 o'clock, the time appointed. On entering the gates at Macquarie-street, he was loudly cheered by the expectant multitude, and his progress down the avenue was marked by similar manifestations of hearty goodwill. The Duke was mounted on a handsome gray charger, and wore the uniform of a general officer of Saxe-Coburg Gotha. His Royal Highness was escorted by a party of troopers, with drawn sabres, under the command of Captain M'Lerie, the Inspector-General of Police. He was accompanied by his Excellency the Earl of Belmore, and in his suite were Viscount Newry, the Hon. Eliot Yorke, Lieutenant Haig, R.E., Mr. Brierley, Captain Beresford (Aide-de-camp to his Excellency the Governor), Major Baker (on the Melbourne staff), and the Bishop of Sydney. Two or three carriages also accompanied the Prince, and in these were his Excellency the Governor of New Zealand (Sir George Bowen), Lady Bowen, Mr. Algernon Lempriere, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. E. J. C. Brown, Mrs. Toulmin, Mrs. Beresford, Mrs. Anderson, and other ladies.

Turning to the more technical matter of the Review, we may state that the various corps and companies which took part in the same mustered on their own parade grounds, and with the exception of the Military, and the Naval Brigade, who proceeded direct to the Review ground, marched to the rendezvous at Hyde Park, where they were brigaded. At a quarter-past 3 o'clock the men were marched off, preceded by the Volunteer band, associated with the Hunter River Companies' band, along Macquarie-street and into the Outer Domain by the Bent-street gate. The force formed in open column, right in front facing the South, the Volunteer Artillery taking up the extreme southern position, the Rifles forming the centre, and the Naval Brigade near the fence on the north side of the cricket ground formed up at right angles with the main line. A few minutes afterwards the 50th Regiment entered the Domain by St. Mary's gate and formed in open column, facing the south to the southward of the Rifles, the Volunteer Artillery having moved off in an easterly direction, in a line with the extreme southern portion of the military, in order to give the latter room to form. Nothing will give a better idea of the large number of men on parade than the fact that there was not sufficient room in the open space—it ought to be called the parade ground—in the Domain to allow the whole force to form in line. A few minutes after the arrival of the military, the order to "wheel into line" was given, and a few seconds saw the military and Volunteer Rifles formed in one continuous line, from the southern boundary of the cleared space to within fifty yards of the northern fence, the Volunteer Artillery being compelled to form in line (on the south) at right angles to the main line, facing the north, and the Naval Brigade (on the north) forming line from the northern extremity of the line of Rifles in a north-easterly direction. The men had not to wait long before a buzz from the assembled thousands of spectators told of the approach of the Prince, and immediately afterwards his Royal Highness, accompanied by a guard of honour of the mounted police, and attended by a numerous and brilliant suite, was seen riding down the avenue (from the Bent-street entrance) between the Inner and Outer Domain. His Royal Highness was enthusiastically cheered at every point of his progress. As the party reached the saluting base, the Royal standard, which had been hoisted on a high staff, in ball, was loosened and flew out to the breeze; and at the same moment the military and volunteers gave a general salute, the military and volunteer bands playing the National Anthem. The mounted officers on the ground then rode towards his Royal Highness who, accompanied by his suite, rode down the lines and inspected the troops. At the termination of the inspection the men wheeled back into open column, right in front, and the whole marched past in quick time. After this the force was halted on the hill, and again wheeled into line. The ranks opened out, gave a general salute, and then advanced in review order, the scene at this moment being highly picturesque. The line was halted fifty yards from the saluting base, and the ranks closed; and so the review, which may fairly be classed among the most successful that ever took place in the colony, terminated. His Royal Highness, after expressing to Colonel Waddy his gratification with the review, accompanied by his suite, left the ground, amid renewed cheering and the waving of handkerchiefs, that might be counted by thousands, and the immense mass of people made a move homewards.

The 50th Regiment, preceded by their band, at once left the ground; and shortly afterwards the Naval Brigade marched back to their parade ground, where they were dismissed. The Rifles and Volunteer Artillery formed fours left, and moved off, left in front, and marched through the Macquarie-street gate, down Bent-street and Spring-street into Pitt-street, up Hunter-street into George-street, up King-street, and back to the open space in front of Hyde Park Barracks, where they were dismissed.

Of the marching and other movements of the military we need say nothing, as praise for excellence in military movements, to men to whom the profession of arms is the business of life, would be superfluous; but too much praise cannot be given to the Volunteers for their steadiness under arms, ready obedience to orders, evident anxiety to acquit themselves creditably, and above all for their excellent marching and wheeling. Many of the companies, to employ an oft-used simile, marched like a wall, and they wheeled as evenly as they marched. Colonel Richardson and other officers, whose military education was acquired in the army, not only expressed themselves delighted, but stated that they never saw men march better, while all agreed that the manner in which the Volunteers performed all their movements would have been creditable to the best drilled regiment of the Line.

Her Majesty's 50th Regiment was commanded by Captain Doran; the Volunteer Artillery—the field guns by Captain Blackmore, and the remainder by Captain Macpherson, of the Newcastle Volunteer Artillery; the Sydney Battalion by Captain Raymond, assisted by Captain Windeyer; the Suburban Battalion and Country Corps by Captain Goodlet; and the Naval Brigade by Captain Hixson. The whole of the Volunteers were under the control of Colonel Richardson, Commandant of the Force, assisted by Assistant-Inspector Captain Shepherd, of the Volunteer Staff; Captain and Adjutant Baynes acting as Brigade-Major, while Major Sussex Milford, of the Staff Corps, officiated as Field Aide-de-Camp; the whole force, Military and Volunteers, under the supreme control of Colonel Waddy, the senior military officer in the colony. The officers of the 50th on the ground were Colonel Waddy, Captain Doran, Captain Young, Captain Eden, Lieutenant Macgregor, Lieutenant Churchill, Lieutenant Preston, Ensign Broomfield, and Lieutenant Barker. DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE AT THE UNIVERSITY.

YESTERDAY evening a dramatic performance by members of the Sydney University took place in the Great Hall of that Institution, in the presence of his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, of his Excellency the Governor and Lady Belmore, and of an audience consisting of about seven hundred ladies and gentlemen, either residents in, or now on a visit to Sydney. The plays performed were the "Phormio" of Terence (in Latin), and Moliere's mirthful comedy of "Monsieur de Pourceaugnac," which was produced in its original language. In both instances, it is only just to say, the representations were eminently successful, and were received with reiterated and well deserved applause. At the western end of the Hall a large and commodious stage was erected, at which there was a drop scene representing the Acropolis of Athens in the classical age. The hall was brilliantly lighted by gas, and on the northern wall (about midway between the flooring and the bottom of the noble series of historical windows) was the significant motto of the University in large Roman capitals formed by jets of gas,—"Sidere mens eadem mutato,"—which may be translated, "The stars over us are changed, but our ideas have remained unaltered." And that the motto of the University expressed no fallacious boast was, in some measure, realised by the very nature of the entertainment provided for the evening, and by the sentiments of those who assembled to witness it. One of the scholastic peculiarities of England, it may be remembered, has long been the occasional production—at her time-honoured universities, and at her ancient, royal colleges, and collegiate schools—of Latin Plays, such as are calculated to impart a zest to the ordinarily dull routine of the study of that tongue, and to inspire the student with feelings of self-confidence, and with a practical knowledge of the true principles of elocution. Some of our greatest sovereigns have cheerfully recognised this feature in the academic education of our Fatherland, which, even the cynical Bishop of Autun had to allow to be the best in Europe. The learned and lion-hearted Queen Elizabeth, to whom (with all her short-comings) England owes so much, liked, we are told, to sit and criticise a Latin play at Oxford or Cambridge; the Scottish Solomon manifested the same partiality, either from good taste or kingcraft; and such entertainments are recorded to have been patronised even by Charles the First and many of his successors. To this day, we believe, the annual plays of Westminster and of Winchester, are still remaining intact, and rightly and duly appreciated;—landmarks that the Kidderminster stuff displayed by some officious modern politicians have not yet succeeded in wiping out. It is believed that the Latin Play—performed by our University students last night with so much spirit, propriety, and exactitude—was the first Latin Play ever produced in these colonies—ever brought out south of the Line. It must be gratifying to think that this event should have been signalised by the presence of a Royal Prince of the United Kingdom—the beloved son of our distant Sovereign. The students of Australia delight, it is evident, still to keep up the glorious traditionary ideas of our mother country.

His Royal Highness, his Excellency the Earl and Countess of Belmore, and the suite of those distinguished personages occupied the eastern gallery below the Great Cambridge window. The Duke occupied the chair of state in the centre of the gallery; having the Countess of Belmore on his left-hand, and his Excellency Earl Belmore on his right. Near the Royal and Vice-Regal party sat Sir George Bowen, the Governor of New Zealand, Lord Bertram Gordon, Lord Newry, Colonel Waddy, Mr. Justice Faucett, the Hon. James Martin (the Premier), and the Commodore of the naval station. In the gallery also were Captain Hope, the Hon. Deas Thomson (the Chancellor), the Hon. John Hubert Plunkett, the Very Rev. Dr. Forrest, the Hon. W. C. Windeyer, Professor Smith, and some other gentlemen, with the lady members of their several families. The Latin Play began at 8 o'clock, and was proceeded with as far as the end of the 20th scene, when an unusual stir was heard without. Then suddenly came the ringing cheers of the people and the National Anthem was played, showing that the Prince was about to make his appearance. His Royal Highness entered shortly afterwards, accompanied by his Excellency, and leading in the Countess. The Prince was received with all due honour, the company standing whilst the splendid military band of the 50th played "God save the Queen." The play was then quietly proceeded with. His Royal Highness with his suite, and the Vice-regal party, retired at about half-past 10 o'clock. The representation of Phormio was, as we have already in some degree intimated, a very spirited and (in every way) remarkable performance—such as reflected the highest credit upon the graduates and undergraduates who took part in the same. The correct and beautiful classical costumes of the dramatis personæ, their clear intonation, careful emphasis, and natural action, all betokened the great amount of study which must have been given to their several parts; their perfect acquaintance with the letter and purport of the text, and, above all, the great and unwearied care and pains which must have been bestowed upon these gentlemen by Professor Badham. Although the conversational language of Terence is, perhaps, rather, unfamiliar to many who may have a very fair knowledge of the Latin tongue (as exhibited in the more serious authors of the Augustan Era and subsequent ages,) and was certainly unknown to the majority of the ladies present last night, the excellence of the acting kept attention alive to the last, and made the general purport of some of the more striking passages readily discernible. The chief difficulty was, of course, the plot, which appears to the casual observer, to be somewhat too obscure and involved to be popularly understood. It was, however, a great assistance to those who were either not "up" to Terence, or were wholly ignorant of the language, to have the opportunity of hearing the witty and explanatory prologue which was spoken in English by Mr. P. Cooper—the gentleman who so ably sustained the character of Phormio, the principal personage in the play. Mr. Cooper's impersonation was very heartily appreciated; and so, too, was the Geta of Mr. Barton, the Antipho of Mr. Purves, the Davus of Mr. Yeomans, the Phædria of Mr. Hetherington, the Demipho of Mr. James Coutts, the Dorio of Mr. John Coutts, the Chremes of Mr. Richardson, the Sophrona of Mr. Thomson, and the Nausistrata of Mr. Fletcher. This last gentleman's impersonation of the angry and jealous wife elicited much merriment. Altogether "Phormio" was a decided success.

The French comedy of "Monsieur de Pourceaugnac" was a still greater hit, not only because the language was more generally known to the audience, but because all, or almost all, who were acquainted with the language must have read the play, the plot of which is as follows:—

A very stupid Advocate is sent for from Limoges to marry Julie, the daughter of Oronte. Eraste, her lover (in concert with Sbrigani, a Neapolitan scamp, and Nérine, Julie's waiting woman), contrives a number of tricks to prevent the marriage. Sbrigani first gains Pourceaugnac's confidence, and becomes his general adviser. Eraste pretends to recognise him as an old friend, and invites him to stay at his house, but the house is that of a doctor, whom Eraste has previously bidden to prepare for the reception of a mad patient. The consultation of two physicians upon his case and their prescriptions for the hungry Traveller kindle his wrath, which is soon changed into terror upon the entrance of six grotesque doctors who torment him to the end of the act. Pourceaugnac having escaped from his tormentors finds Sbrigani, who, with pretended reluctance, gives to him very damaging accounts of the behaviour of his intended—Julie. The physician, in quest of his prey, meets with Oronte, and makes suggestions which lead Oronte to think that De Pourceaugnac would be a most undesirable son-in-law. Immediately after, Sbrigani, disguised as a Flemish dealer, inquires of Oronte (whom he pretends not to know) whether there is any truth in the report of Pourceaugnac's projected marriage to an heiress, saying that himself and other creditors are much interested in it, as the gentleman has assigned the lady's wedding portion in satisfaction of their claims. Oronte and Pourceaugnac meet, and there follows a scene of angry altercation, while Julie—to the distraction of her father—mischievously displays the most unreserved fondness for her intended, and great discontent with her father. She is ordered out. Nerine disguised as a Picarde, and another woman pretending to be from the South of France, come in, and having, in their several dialects, reproached Pourceaugnac as an absconding husband, call in their supposed little children to appeal to their "unnatural father." Pourceaugnac has again recourse to Sbrigani, who tells him that, innocent as he is, he runs a great chance of being hanged for polygamy; a sagacious opinion confirmed by four grotesque lawyers, whose melodious exposition of the law concludes the second act. Pourceaugnac, on Sbrigani's advice, disguises himself as a lady of quality. Two drunken Swiss are resolved to see the face of the supposed female, whose cries for help bring on the stage a pretended officer of the police. He affects to discover the polygamist whom the law is looking for, and to be about to take him to prison. Sbrigani then enters, and on his proposal the officer consents to take all the money that Pourceaugnac has about him, and to fly with him to Limoges. After the flight Oronte enters distracted at the loss of his daughter, who is reported to have been seen flying in company with Pourceaugnac. Presently, however, Eraste returns with the pretended fugitive, and the grateful father insists upon Eraste taking her for his trouble, with a double dowry to compensate for the awkward circumstances of the case.

Such is the plot of this rollicking comedy as explained in the libretto provided. Julie was impersonated by a clever little student whose talent was fully equal to the espieglerie of the part, and who played throughout with an archness and joyous abandon which contributed not a little to the great success of the piece. Mr. O'Meara's Eraste (Julie's clever and rather unscrupulous lover) was also a very pleasing and gentlemanlike performance; although the part is decidedly a heavy one, he seemed to be what is technically termed "letter perfect," or very nearly so. As Monsieur De Pourceaugnac Mr. O'Connell was in every respect so thoroughly at home that it was difficult to realise the fact that he was not really a Frenchman. He was, if anything, at times perhaps a little too gentlemanlike and intelligent for his part. In the rapidity of his repartee, and in his long-continued, hopeless astonishment and blank dismay under his many outrageous trials, Mr. O'Connell was inimitably good and was very loudly applauded. The Sbrigani of Mr. Tole (of St. John's College) was likewise a remarkable hit, and would have been appreciated any where as a finished piece of acting. It was equal to the performance of a good professional actor. The loquacious Nerine of Mr. Richardson, the grim Apothecary of Mr. Donovan, the First Physician by Mr. James Coutts, the Second Physician by Mr. Yeomans, the Oronte by Mr. Barton (already so successful in the Latin play), the First Swiss by Mr. Clune, and the Police Officer by Mr. John Coutts, all deserve special and emphatic commendation. Messrs. Faithfull, Ward, J. Purves, P. Cooper, Yeomans, and Tole sustained the more grotesque characters, whose humour materially enhances the fun of the play.

The Dramatic Performance at the University, has been at once an intellectual exercise of no mean value, and a very decided novelty. Considering the way in which it was carried out, it is to be hoped that it will not be the last entertainment of the kind that will be witnessed by the public in the Great Hall of that Institution.

THE DUKE'S DAY RACES.

FINAL arrangements for the races, which were postponed from New Year's Day till to-day, in order to secure the patronage and presence of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, have been made, and the committee of Tattersall's Club deserve to succeed for the energy and perseverance they have displayed in their endeavours to bring this meeting to a successful issue. The Royal box on the Grand Stand has been carefully fitted up, and tastefully decorated with flags, evergreens, &c.; and a large tent has been erected in the saddling paddock for the accommodation of H.R.H. Prince Alfred, his Excellency the Earl of Belmore, the Countess of Belmore, and their friends. Luncheon for his Royal Highness and guests will be served in this tent. There are seven races on the card, and there is every probability of every event being warmly contested. The Hurdle Race has half-a-dozen horses left in it; and the Maiden Plate, the same number; the Club Cup, eleven; the Trotting Stakes, six; the Selling Stakes, fifteen; the Duke of Edinburgh Stakes, twenty-one; and the New Year's Gift, ten. Warrior was struck out of the Selling Race, and Hard Times out of the Gift at 11.45 last night, and Carnation out of the Maiden Plate and Rainsworth out of the Duke's Stakes at 11.50. A very fully-attended meeting of the members of Tattersall's Club was held at the club rooms last night, when sweeps were drawn on some of the races to be run to-day. In a sweep on the Hurdle Race, which amounted to £19, Comet brought £7 15s., Mountain Maid £5 10s., and Gratis £3. In another on the Cup, which amounted to £19 10s., North Australian sold for £5 5s., Bulgimbar for £5, Beatrice for £4, Pitsford for £2 15s., and Phœbe for £2. In another on the Duke's Stakes, amounting to £35 12s. 6d., Gulnare and Carnation brought £10 each, Orlando £5 10s., Italian and Whynot £5 each, Archer £4, and North Australian £1 15s. In a sweep amounting to £29 on the Selling Race, the following prices were realised:—Wild Dayrell, £7 15s.; Maritana, £5 10s.; Pacha, £3 15s.; Hamlet, £3 10s.; Casino, £3.

THE NEW POSTAL CONTRACT.—We (S. A. Register) are informed that the changes about to be made in the Australian service do not involve any alteration in our contract, which was for seven years from 1865. It is only the Indian contract that has been renewed, and the extra mail per annum has been given us merely to secure proper connection with the Indian steamers. The P. and O. Company appear to have thrown it into the bargain, and well they might. At all events, no intimation has been received from the Postmaster-General of his intention to charge anything extra for it. Another point which ought not be forgotten is that the colonies are as free as ever to organise a service of their own between Galle and Sydney, the only necessary preliminary being two years' notice to terminate the existing contract. We rejoice to hear that such an organisation is being warmly advocated in influential circles.

BOROUGH OF BALMAIN.—Pursuant to the call of the mayor, the council met on Monday, the 20th instant. Members present—the mayor, aldermen Elliott, M'Beath, Marshall, Mossman, Perdriau, Robinson, and Vale. The mayor stated that, under the Municipalities Act of 1867, it was necessary to determine by resolution, until a by-law shall be in force, on what days and at what hour the meetings of the council shall be held. Alderman Elliott then moved, "That the meeting for this month be on the third Monday at 7 o'clock p.m." Put and carried. The minutes of the previous meeting were then read and confirmed. Correspondence read and disposed of:—1. A letter from Mr. Coleman, contractor for William and St. Mary streets, stating that he would commence the works this week. Received, and an answer ordered to be returned to the effect that if he did not commence on or before Friday fresh tenders would be called. 2. A protest from Mr. Richard Bennett, Vincent-street, against alderman Mossman holding his seat. Miscellaneous: Alderman Mossman drew the attention of the council to the fact that a portion of M. W. Bate's fence was still unremoved off Thomas-street, whereupon the council instructed the surveyor to cause the same to be removed forthwith. Reports brought up from committees:—1. From the committee of works, stating that since the previous meeting of council they had examined and certified to the committee of finance for payment the day labour pay sheet for the week ended on the 9th instant, amounting for various works to £11 14s. Report received. 2. From the committee of finance, stating that since the previous meeting they had paid under votes of appropriation accounts duly certified as per vouchers submitted, for works and newspaper, amounting to £13 7s. Three motions pursuant to notice by alderman Chapman were put and carried as under, viz., "1. That the surveyor be instructed to prepare plans and estimate of the cost of putting Stephen-street into a good state of repair. 2. That the surveyor be instructed to prepare plans together with estimate of the cost of putting Vincent-lane into a good state of repair. 3. That the surveyor be instructed to prepare plans together with estimate of the cost of cutting down the south end of Ann-street, and making the whole of that street in a good passable state of repair." It was then moved by councillor Robinson and agreed to,—"That the next meeting of the council for the transaction of such business as might be brought legally before it, would be held on the first Tuesday in February next, at 7 o'clock p.m."

Messrs. Brewster and Trebeck report having sold the Terembone Station, consisting of three blocks in the Bligh district, with 1500 cattle, at £4 per head.

As in all other branches of commercial and monetary affairs the festivities consequent upon the Prince's visit rendered the amount of business done in the stock and share market during the past week almost nominal. In bank shares, the only transactions were in New South Wales at 45½. City's are wanted at 10¼; there are sellers at 10½. A. S. N. Company's shares have been done at a decline of 5s. Peak Downs Copper are also easier; sales at 26s. 6d. to 27s. 6d. Wallsend Coal brought last week's rates. In debentures, there have been transactions in New South Wales terminables at 95, and Queensland 6 per cent. at par.

The following table will show the closing quotations of the Stock and Share market, and the rates at which business has been done during the week:—

The supply of hides and tallow at public sales held to-day being below the average, induced active competition, and prices were fully up to last week's rates. Good beef tallow brought £32 10s. to £33 2s. 6d.; inferior to fair, £29 10s. to £32. For heavy hides there was a brisk local demand; 60lb. hides brought 19s., and other parcels of extra weights from 15s. 9d. to 18s. 9d.; first heavy, from 13s. 9d. to 14s. 3d., inferior and light, 7s. 9d. to 12s. 3d.; horse hides, 5s. 4d.; calfskins, 1s. 6d. to 5s. 3d.; yearlings, 3s. 6d. to 5s. 6d.

Particulars of sales were as follows:—

By Mr. Devlin: W.J., 21 casks beef tallow, at £32 10s., 6 at £33, 4 at £30 10s., 2 at £30; 3, inferior mutton, at £31 5s. 146 hides at 17s. 6d. to 18s. 9d., 52 at 11s. 9d. to 12s. 3d.; 52 calfskins at 1s. 6d. to 5s. 3d. A parcel of 745 first heavy hides were bought in.

By Messrs. Irwin and Turner: W, 7 casks beef tallow, at £33, 6 at £30 5s. to £32 5s., 1 very inferior, at £24,; 144 hides, at 15s. 9d. to 19s., 195 at 10s. to 10s. 6d.; 43 calfskins, at 4s.; yearlings, at 3s. 6d. to 5s. 6d.

By Messrs. Mort and Co.: P in circle, 14 casks beef tallow at £33 2s. 6d.; W, 6 at £33, 9 at £32 10s.; JP, 4 at £32 to £32 10s., 7 at £29 10s., 3 at £32 15s. 323 hides at 14s. 1d. to 16s. 6d., 70 at 13s. 3d. to 13s. 9d., 66 at 7s. 9d. to 11s.; 100 horse hides at 5s. 4d. The same firm are to sell, to-morrow (Saturday), at Smith's Wharf, the whole of the damaged cargo of wool, tallow, and other Queensland produce ex Salween.

Business has been at a standstill during the week, and sales have been of the smallest description. The breadstuffs market has a declining tendency; best brands of Adelaide silk-dressed flour are now obtainable at £18 to £19; Victorian made is worth from 29s. to 30s. per ton less. Old wheat is scarce, and 8s. 6d. is still quoted for Adelaide. In liquors there have been a few transactions in Martell's and Hennessy's brandy at the recent advance. Bulk ale is unaltered, but for bottled lower rates are quoted in consequence of recent heavy arrivals.

The recent failure of the Royal Bank of Liverpool has occasioned much comment by commercial journals on the banking system of England. The Economist of November 16th has the following remarks on the insolvent bank, and the lessons to be derived therefrom.

> We do not know even yet the whole interior of the Royal Bank of Liverpool; we do not know the very item we most wish to know, the amount of the rediscounts. We cannot form a proper judgment of the business of a bank unless we know the scale of its transactions; and in such a case as this, the amount of the rediscounts determines the magnitude of everything else. But we know enough to see that the management must have been very bad. The liabilities to the public, to actual external creditors, are stated to be £1,630,000, against which the only assets are these:—
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | Debts ... ... | £560,000 |
> | Bonds of Mersey Docks ... ... | 77,000 |
> | Bank buildings and land ... ... | 160,000 |
> | Bills rediscounted but returned, and doubtful bills in the hands of bank ... ... | 260,000 |
> | Good bills and cash ... ... | 172,000 |
> | | £1,247,000 |
> Showing a deficiency of £383,000 to be made by calls on the shareholders, which is more than a fifth of the entire liabilities to the public; and the shareholders will lose as follow:—
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | Capital formerly to be paid up ... ... | £650,000 |
> | Reserve Fund ... ... | 109,000 |
> | Deficiency as above, to be made by future calls ... | 382,000 |
> | | £1,141,000 |
> And there will, probably, be interest on present debts not at once paid besides. Such a loss indicates that there was not only common mistake and mismanagement, but a culpable ignorance of the business of banking, or, what is worse, a wilful disregard of its plain principles. If we look over even the meagre history of its affairs which we possess, we shall soon see how true these unfavourable conclusions are.
> First. The Royal Bank invented (as far as we know) a new error in banking. No mistake is more common than for a bank to carry on insolvent customers; there is always a mischievous hope that by advancing a little more, what is already advanced may be possibly recovered; there is, by the very constitution of the human mind, an indisposition to look the first great loss in the face,—to admit that it is a loss, and to write it off, and provide for it then and there. But the Royal Bank went further; they not only carried on their customers, but contracted to carry them on; and now, after the failure, one gentleman "claims the benefit of agreement," that is, says, "You may stop, but I will not. I am insolvent no doubt, and I was insolvent when you undertook to work my business for five years. But I am not so bad as you thought; I really hope to pay more than we then estimated." Upon a winding up this argument is, we conceive, invalid; the business of the Bank with this remarkable customer will cease, as well as the rest of its business.
> 2ndly. There is to be a considerable loss on the "purchase of shares account." No bank ought ever to get or lose by buying and selling its own shares. Of course, the notion was that the credit of the bank might suffer if its shares were allowed to "droop," and that the price must, therefore, be supported from day to day. But in the end such fictitious credit always breaks down; it is better for a bank, as for every one, to look bad times in the face at once, than to endeavour by temporary remedies to make them look better than they are. The persons who ought to come forward when the price of shares goes down are the shareholders; it is for them to support their property; it is for them to prevent the credit of their bank from being impaired. If the shareholders are too needy to do so, or have not enough confidence in the bank to do so, the sooner the concern is wound up the better.
> 3rdly. Though the details are not given us, it is evident that the Royal Bank made reckless and improper advances on shipping property. A ship is bad security for a banker at the best; it can earn nothing while it stays in port, and if it goes to sea it may come home with a bottomry bond or many bottomry bonds—the last of which will, by law maritime, take precedence of all others, and all of which will take rank before the bankers.
> But none of these errors are so bad as the large advances to the chairman and managing director. By the latter, whose account was a large one, we are told that there will be considerable loss. And this is worse than mistake. No managing director in a dangerous way of business is fit to be such; he cannot keep his mind in that cool, steady, objecting frame of mind which befits a banker. He cannot and will not refuse bad securities, when the very same, or just like them, constitute his property, and absorb his mind. He will always say that they are quite safe, and that it is only "old women" who object to them. But if he begins to borrow of the bank upon such securities, and his colleagues let him, the fate of the bank is sealed. He will be sure both to make a large bad debt upon his own account, and others, probably larger, upon other accounts.
> Some persons upon this, as upon all like occasions, are exclaiming that the true remedy is to prevent all advances by a bank to its directors and managers. But, in the first place, this is easier said than done; these persons have the custody of the till, and if they wish to help themselves they can. To evade the firm lending to themselves, they can advance to some brother or cousin or clerk who will go shares in the proceeds with them. The deed of the Royal Bank of Liverpool contains all manner of stringent provisions, which have been useless, and so will all provisions forbidding advances to directors in the one case for which they are intended, viz., the case of directors who use the bank money improperly. And such a restriction tends to defeat its own object; it will make directors not more respectable but less respectable. A director must bank somewhere, and, if in business, as the most useful directors in cities are, must borrow at times of his banker. But, in practice, he must either bank at his own bank or at an opposition bank, and, of course, the opposition bank will not lend to him, and he will dislike his opponents knowing all about his affairs. In very large cities there are many banks, and the field is so great, that the particular competition of any two is rarely felt. But in common towns and small cities, it is not so; each bank is on terms of civil enmity with the bank over the way. In practice, a director must either bank at his own bank or at a hostile bank, and as no decent man likes to ask a hostile bank for money, no decent man will be a director of a bank if he is kept from borrowing from it. Belonging to one bank destroys very friendly relations with all others. The real remedy is quite different. You should get a good set of directors, and pay them enough to make it worth while to know all about the business.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN IRON.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—A few remarks on the iron trade, which is at present so depressed, may not be unwelcome from one who has just returned from a hasty trip through some of the most important rolling mills in the United States and Canada. The causes of the existing stagnation in England lie chiefly within ourselves, and are obvious to the most casual observer. The breakdown in confidence in railway directors has deprived railway companies of the power to make their customary renewals of permanent way, and has stopped further extension. This accounts for the present low price of rails, and the flat aspect of that part of the trade. The demand was so good two years ago, when everything in railways was so inflated, that a number of new mills were erected, and these are now struggling for an existence. About 1,000,000 tons per annum may be roughly stated as the rail production of England, and it may be computed that our home railways have purchased 150,000 tons less during the past twelve months than in the twelve months preceding.

The general iron trade, especially that part of it dependent upon iron shipbuilding, has fared even worse, and, judging from the disorganisation of business in Liverpool, which has been the principal mainstay of shipbuilders during the last few years, there is little prospect of an early revival. Our foreign trade has not been impaired. India, Russia, and America have taken more iron this year than they did up to the same period last year, and the majority of our other markets have been quite as good as usual.

A recovery of the iron trade here will take place simultaneously with a general revival of confidence throughout the country. When that may be no one can tell, but it may be nearer than is generally thought. The Limited Liability Act has brought a number of companies into the iron trade, the effect of which remains to be seen. No trade is more dependent upon the individual energy and secrecy of private enterprise than the iron trade. Any one who looks at the price of shares in limited liability companies will be able to form his own conclusions as to the present prosperity of the trade.

This much may be said respecting our own trade before referring to the same trade in America.

The duty upon rails imported into the United States is 22 dollars 40 cents, payable in gold, equal to £4 12s. per ton. The price of English rails of the description usually shipped to America is just now under £6 15s. per ton, at the shipping port, so that the duty in favour of the American manufacturer is equal to a profit of 77 per cent. This is a very considerable protection to the leading iron manufacturers, and one would expect that the American iron trade must be in a particularly flourishing condition. Quite the contrary. The alluring prospect of such a splendidly protected trade has encouraged so much internal competition that this evil is working its own cure, and at this moment the trade is even more depressed there than it is here. Large as the duty is, the ironmasters are still clamouring for more, looking to the paltry expedient of shutting out all foreign imports to cure the desperate game of competition among themselves, which has been fostered by the system of a continually increasing tariff. Large as our production at present may be in excess of a profitable demand, in America it is proportionately greater. Unless a rolling-mill in the States at present has some speciality—and, by the way, you scarcely meet a practical American who does not carry a patent in his pocket—it is not making full time or working at a profit. The most thriving part of the trade is girder iron, which is only rolled at three works, who have formed a combination, by means of which they net very handsome profits. The largest size of this iron made in America is 15 inches; our largest size is 12 inches; while in France and Belgium it is rolled up to 30 inches.

Another prosperous business is that at Troy, in the State of New York, where horseshoes, railway spikes, and rivets are made by machinery. The horseshoes are made from a bar of iron at the rate of sixty per minute. In England it is well known how few can be made by hand per day, and they are not superior either in quality or workmanship.

The chief production in the States is rails, and since the conclusion of the war the demand has been greatly curtailed. As yet the Southern States have made about as little progress in material reconstruction as they have done in political, and their absolute necessities can only be purchased in deferred payments. The railmakers of America have always fostered a preference, and sought higher prices for American rails, because of a superiority of quality as compared with English improved rails. Nothing could be more absurd. Three-fourths of the American new rails are re-rolled old rails, with a thin top of puddled bars, and these old rails are in most cases as yet the original rails shipped from England. During the past 12 months about 25,000 tons of old rails have been shipped from England to America, which have been re-rolled to produce the quality said to be so much superior to English.

At the same time it must be said that a better quality of rails could, and ought to be, made in England for the American market.

At present English rails, even with the high duty, do compete in price with American rails, but as a rule English rails are only bought for the construction of new lines or extensions of old ones. The American manufacturer generally renews the line by contracting to re-roll the old rails. Just now, although the stock of English rails in the New York market is scarcely 5000 tons, the demand is so small that shipments from England are discouraged. Usually the stock in New York is 15,000 to 20,000 tons.

Americans have a right to decide their tariffs for themselves, but with the great disadvantages of dear labour, coals, and ore it may surely be said that capital could be far better employed in developing the enormous agricultural riches of the country than in stimulating a trade which, upon its own merits, deprived of a tariff equal to 77 per cent., is unable to compete with other countries. How very much the high price of iron material must hinder the extension of their railway enterprise, which is the very life and soul of their prosperity! The same organisations which have broken loose the chains of slavery should henceforth be used to free commerce from a thraldom so selfish and unwise.

The Bessemer process has been introduced at several works, but the [illegible] of the country is not quite adapted to it, and, so far, it has only been an indifferent success. The Hudson River Railway [illegible] Bessemer steel rails [illegible] bought 5000 tons lately of [illegible] in England, have resolved to renew their whole line of 150 miles with steel rails.

Shipbuilding is for the most part confined to river navigation steamships, mostly of wood, and few plates are rolled, and only a small quantity of angle iron.

The foundries thrive better than the rolling mills, and some of the castings are admirable. At Chicago there is notably a splendid block of buildings, with ornamental cast-iron frontage, which surpasses anything to be seen in England or elsewhere. One observes a readiness in the American character to adopt the most serviceable article, without regard to prejudice or previous custom.

The stove trade is very extensive, and nothing made at Carron or Shotts will rival their productions. Scotch pig iron is largely imported for that purpose, bearing a duty of 9 dollars per ton, equal to 66 per cent. on present price, which of course is paid, as all duties are, by the consumer in the higher price of the article he buys.

In agricultural machinery the iron used is considerable, and American ingenuity in that direction is ahead of every other country.

The nail trade is not so active as it usually is, and the makers who cut nails (a very large trade) especially complain.

Horseshoes, as has been already observed, are made by machinery, and so also are the horseshoe nails. In England the greatest prejudice exists against both, and with customary English prejudice they are not likely to be in large use for a long time. The spirit of Toryism in its worst type descends deep into the constitution of the English mechanic, however liberal his creed may be. Were this not the case, there would be few English workmen's homes without a sewing-machine and a clothes-washing machine. As has often been observed, the very necessities of the American people compel them to invent methods of labour-saving. The labour question is the question of the present day, and no trade has a larger interest in it than the iron trade.

There is a machine called the squeezer, requiring no manual labour, in every ironwork in America, doing the work of our steam hammer, which requires the attention of two men. There is only one of these machines used in England. A steam hammer is not seen in one work out of ten in America. To England belongs the honour of every great discovery connected with iron; but we need not despise or disparage the ingenious inventions which as naturally belong to America.

The languid state of the iron trade in the States is greatly due to the aspect of political affairs, and not a little to the continual fluctuations in the price of gold.

These are elements of so much uncertainty that it is needless to enter into considerations respecting them. It can only be hoped that the Southern States may speedily resume their commercial importance under a system of free labour, and that free trade may be the outcome of the present struggle.

Both in England and America the iron trade is overborne by excess of production. With the labour question so unsettled capital is not likely to be attracted to it, and when confidence revives there may be a better chance for the large capital invested in it.

Your obedient servant,

J. S.

FANCY BREAD.

(From the Tomahawk.)

[DEDICATED TO THE AUTHOR OF "GERMAN YEAST."]

TELL me what is Fancy Bread,
Is it alum, or white lead?
How begot, how fashioned?
Reply, Reply.
It is engendered from old bones
With glazing fed; the eater moans,
'Neath its weight his stomach groans;
Bread of Fancy, hear thy knell
Sounded by the Muffin-Bell;
Ding-dong Bell.

WRESTLING IN FRANCE.—A large theatre, called Arene Athletique, has been fitted up in Paris, and it seems to be quite the rage to attend the wrestling matches that take place there. The men wrestle catch-weight, and somewhat in the north-country style; the fall is for both shoulders to touch, and any one choosing to try their powers against any man belonging to this arena can be on, to any amount they please, from £10 to £20 a-side, or more. They boast that they can fell, and have done so, our best men in England. The men belonging to this arena are almost all from the south of France—about Marseilles—and seem to be first-rate wrestlers, but do not attach any importance to weight, which seems to be all catch-weight.

PETROLEUM BUSINESS IN AMERICA.—One of the most depressed branches of American trade during the past year has been the petroleum business. The price of oil has been so low that it scarcely paid for production, and a large proportion of the wells were abandoned. Letters from the Pennsylvanian oil region state, however, that under a recent improvement in prices the business of producing oil is sufficiently remunerative not only to keep all the old hands employed, but to bring in some new ones, and there is no fear of the supply failing. Under this healthy impetus, wells that had been abandoned, because it did not pay to pump them, are now worked to advantage. New wells are also being bored in advantageous localities, and, on the whole, the business is said to look better than it has for a twelvemonth. An immense number of huge iron tanks have been erected near the wells, and there is now tankage capacity sufficient to store several months' supply. The producers intend, if prices again fall below a paying figure, to store their oil in these tanks until the diminished supply in the market causes a reaction.

The State of Pennsylvania has a system of common schools, supported by the commonwealth, of which her people are quite proud. In 1860 she had 11,897 schools, in which were 13,194 teachers and 365,503 scholars. The expense of the system for that year was 2,500,000 dollars. In 1866 the system had greatly increased its usefulness, there being in that year 13,146 schools, with 16,148 teachers and 725,312 scholars, while the total expenditure for the year was 4,195,258 dollars, which is believed to be a larger sum than was expended for similar purposes during that year by any other American State.

The year 1866 was one of unexampled liberality to American colleges, and nearly all the institutions of learning in the country received donations and bequests in large amounts. From a table prepared in Yale College it appears that during the year sixty-one American colleges received gifts in money to the amount of 3,041,000 dollars, besides large grants of the public lands made by Congress during that year to institutions of learning having agricultural departments. Cornell University, in New York, received 760,000 dollars; Harvard University, near Boston, 400,000 dollars; Tuft's College, Massachusetts, 200,000 dollars; Yale College, at New Haven, 200,000; Baldwin University, in Ohio, 103,000 dollars; Dickinson College, Pennsylvania, 100,000 dollars; Chicago University, 100,000 dollars; Washington University of St. Louis, Missouri, 100,000 dollars, and others received smaller amounts.

The money-order system in the American Post-office is winning its way to favour, and becoming most useful to our people. It was begun in November, 1864, when 140 money-order offices were opened, and by June 30, 1865, 1,360,122 dollars had been transmitted by the system, yielding the department a revenue of 11,534 dollars. In 1866 the number of offices was increased to 473, and the business done was 3,977,259 dollars. During the last fiscal year, ending June 30, 1867, there were 835 money-order offices open, and 10,000,000 dollars were transmitted; and during the current year the number of offices is to be increased to 1035, and it is estimated that 15,000,000 dollars will be transmitted. The system is modelled after the English system, and has been conducted so successfully as to pay quite a profit over all expenses.

The final burst of triumph with which the Paris Exhibition will close is to be a woman's show, to take place at the end of October. The handsomest woman to receive a pair of earrings, value 600,000f. (£24,000), which are now on view at a jeweller's stand at the Exhibition. Everybody is anxious to make part of the jury which is to decide this prize.

TO REMOVE WHITE SPOTS FROM THE CORNEA.—The white spots which sometimes appear on the horny covering of the eye often increase, observes the New York Tribune, in size so as to interfere with the sight. Dr. De Luca reports to the French Academy of Sciences that sulphate of soda, which has the property of maintaining the fibrin of the blood in a fluid state, may be used with success in removing these spots. The best method of using it is to reduce the salt to a fine powder, and drop a pinch of it into the eye of the patient while in a horizontal posture: the salt is soon dissolved in the liquids of the eye. After its use for a few days patients formerly blind were enabled to see vaguely, and in the course of time their sight had been completely restored.

TUESDAY, 18th proximo.

IMPERATIVE SALE.
By order of the Mortgagee.
The beautiful and first-class Agricultural and Grazing Estate, known as ESTHERMEAD,
containing 2060 ACRES of IMPROVED FREEHOLD, adjoining the TOWNSHIP OF GUNDAROO.

FINLAY and CO. have received instructions from the Mortgagee to sell by auction, at their Rooms, Market-square, on TUESDAY, 18th proximo, at 12 o'clock,

The magnificent estate of ESTHERMEAD, comprising an area of 2060 acres of the richest and best description of agricultural and grazing land in the county of Murray, about 1600 acres of which are fenced in and subdivided into CULTIVATION, GRAZING, and FATTENING PADDOCKS.

The homestead is situated within five minutes' walk of the village, and commands, as far as the eye can reach, a most delightful and picturesque view of the CELEBRATED GUNDAROO VALLEY,
Esthermead itself being a portion of this beautiful panorama.

The improvements comprise—
Two cottages, containing four rooms each
Two kitchens and two servants' rooms
Dairy and meat-store, two stables, containing each 3 and 4 stalls, loose box, &c.
Coach-house, harness-room, men's huts
Barn 70 x 20, granary, stockyards, &c.

Attached to the house is an ORCHARD OF FIVE ACRES,
stocked with every description of fruit trees and justly celebrated for its great variety and excellence of fruit. This is surrounded by a dense and very high hawthorn hedge, which lends to everything around the pleasing and happy appearance of an ENGLISH YEOMAN'S HOME.

The garden covers 1½ acres, and contains many fine trees.

On the estate, and verging the village, there is a COMFORTABLE AND WELL-BUILT STORE, together with commodious outbuildings, at present doing a most LUCRATIVE BUSINESS,
and returning a rental of thirty-nine pounds (£39) per annum; also one small farm let at £10 per annum; and another at £12, together with three other tenements usually let at 15s. per acre. The foregoing could easily be made to yield to the proprietor a rental of £107 per annum, without taking from the estate more than 65 acres.

This choice little estate is bounded on THREE SIDES by the
and commands at all times an unlimited supply of water. The cultivation land, fully one hundred acres, is exceedingly rich, and cannot be surpassed.

The fattening paddocks, particularly the GROVE PADDOCK, containing upwards of 1000 acres, are at all times richly grassed, and their fattening properties either for sheep or cattle are of the most nourishing description. A portion of the Valley Paddocks are laid down in lucerne.

It is usual in introducing a property of merit, to recapitulate and enlarge upon the many advantages it possesses over others of an inferior description; but the auctioneers in this case are prepared to throw aside comment and beg of those interested simply to inspect Esthermead, when they will find the following facts fully substantiated, and from which they can draw their own conclusions as to the value of the property.

Esthermead is surrounded by large freeholds not likely to come into the market, the proprietors being gentlemen of affluence, who have derived their wealth by the extraordinary productiveness of their valley lands.

Every inch of soil is rich agricultural and grazing land with extraordinary fattening paddocks, and available Government land adjoining—all of which is splendid sheep country.

Esthermead is better watered than any estate around Gundaroo, and has within two days' drive three of the principal markets—Goulburn, Braidwood, and Queanbeyan, the former of which is distant only 36 miles.

Mr. Galloway, who is residing at Esthermead, will be happy to show those interested over the property, and to render every information that may be of value to the purchaser.

Title unquestionable. Particulars on application to A. BETTS, Esq., Solicitor, Goulburn.

TERMS:—Half cash, and the balance at 6 and 12 months from day of sale, with bank discount added; or half the purchase money may remain secured upon the property.

FOR SALE.

It contains one very large bar, large taproom, splendid billiard-room, magnificent ball-room, four large parlours, twenty-one airy and well-ventilated bedrooms, a most commodious kitchen containing all the modern improvements, two bathrooms, extensive stabling, coach-houses, loose boxes, fowl-houses, piggery sheds, also large and roomy cellars. Attached to the hotel, which stands on one and a quarter acre of land, is a very large garden, filled with the choicest fruit trees, together with vines, evergreens, and vegetables. A large brewery with plant, &c., in full working order, with cellar attached, is on the premises, and will be sold with the hotel. The brewery can be readily let for upwards of £70 per annum.
